NEWS BRIEFS

Scranton Draft Stand Remains

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said Wednesday that Henry Cabot Lodge's victory in the New Hampshire primaries casts the Republican presidential nomination race in a new light.

Lodge's heavy write-in vote in Tuesday's election "has catapulted him into a very prominent position in the presidential race and certainly he is now one of the leading contenders at the very least," Scranton said at his weekly news conference, adding:

"I would say that from the standpoint of Pennsylvania (Republicans), it more than ever confirms the wisdom of the policy of having uncommitted delegates because here we go again with a different situation now than was literally the case even a week ago."

Scranton said, however, the New Hampshire results had not changed his personal position regarding the presidency. He repeated that he is not a candidate and will not become one unless there is a sincere draft.

House Blushes Over Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members asked themselves for a $10,000-a-year pay raise Wednesday and got conflicting answers and some embarrassing reminders about past pledges of economy in government.

A final vote on a bill to raise salaries of 1.7 million federal employes — including senators and representatives — was put off until Thursday after a spirited debate, most of it dealing with the proposed congressional increase.

The vice president, Supreme Court justices, Cabinet officials and their immediate aides also would get $10,000-a-year raises under the bill. It makes the biggest increases at the top end of the pay scale in an attempt to make federal managerial jobs more attractive.

McNamara Starts Viet Nam Report

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara began work Wednesday on a report he will give President Johnson on the South Vietnamese war.

McNamara's spokesman, Arthur Sylvester, told newsmen that his chief had discussed tentative conclusions of his appraisals here with the Vietnamese premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

The discussions took place during a plane trip to and from the northern capital of Hue where both McNamara and Khanh addressed the cheering crowds earlier in the day.

Sylvester said McNamara, who arrived Sunday, also discussed with Khanh recommendations he will make to President Johnson.

Dr. Taller Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Herman Taller, author of "Calories Don't Count," a best-seller for 39 weeks, was indicted Wednesday on charges his book fraudulently promoted worthless pills for no-diet weight control.

The federal indictment came six weeks after the makers and promoters of another purported reducing pill, "Regimen tablets," were indicted on similar charges.

Bright '64 Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton said Wednesday night Pennsylvania stands at the threshold of a golden opportunity that could make it the finest state in the nation.

He made the remark in accepting the first annual Keystone Award as an outstanding Pennsylvanian by the Pennsylvania Association of Broadcasters.

"If we're ready to do the job," he said, "1964 can be the best year for Pennsylvania in centuries."

Stock Market Rally Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advance surged on Wednesday with a strong rally.

Volume spurted to 6.21 million shares from 5.5 million Tuesday. This was the heaviest since Jan. 16 when a like number of shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 4.46 to $13.87, its fourth peak in as many days.

Board Wins 1st Inning

Frantz's Baseball Still In Glove

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Freddy Frantz, 17-year-old married Stroud Union athlete, will not be able to play high school varsity baseball until at least March 30 and maybe not at all.

Yesterday Monroe County President Judge Fred W. Davis refused to grant a temporary injunction against a Stroud Union Board of Education ruling which denies married students the right to represent the school in interscholastic sports.

After listening to two days of testimony during the hearing, Judge Davis set March 30 as the time he will hear final argument by opposing lawyers.

The complaint was brought by George Frantz on behalf of his son, a minor. The father contends the board ruling is illegal because it denies young Frantz the right to pursue his chosen profession—baseball—during his senior year in high school.

Witness For Defense

After Lee B. Koehler, attorney for Frantz, rested his case yesterday, Edward Williams, school board attorney, called only two defense witnesses to the stand.

The first, Alfred Munson, Stroud Union High School principal, testified Frantz stands 114th academically in a senior class of 190 students.

The other, Robert Hellmann, Board of Education president, said allowing married students to take part in extra-curricular activities was not "healthy" and the board could not condone such a situation.

Future Harmed

Before resting, the plaintiff, called six witnesses—including young Frantz, and most of them testified the youth's future would be harmed if he could not play baseball during the coming high school season.

One of the witnesses called in behalf of Frantz was Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, and the father of Atty. Koehler, who argued the plaintiff's case.

Dr. Koehler said if Frantz cannot play ball this year, "It will have a very material effect on his future."

Dr. Koehler said to enter the college's physical education program a student should have a 425 score in the verbal section of College Board examinations and rank in the upper one-half of his class.

Frantz has expressed a desire to enroll at ESSC and took the college boards last Saturday.

"We like everyone in our physical education department to specialize in one sport because we expect them to go out and coach after graduation," Dr. Koehler said.

Principal's Right

At one point during yesterday's hearing Atty. Koehler asked Earl Groner, Stroud Union district superintendent, if the high school principal had the right to bar any student from playing sports because of bad conduct.

Atty Williams strenuously objected to this question and maintained at no point in the pleadings was the question of conduct mentioned. If Koehler insists conduct and "morality" were raised as issues the defense would call witnesses to rebut the testimony, Williams declared.

After a conference with Judge Davis at the bench, Koehler withdrew his question.

When questioned about a meeting he had with the elder Frantz during the Christmas holidays in 1962, Munson said:

"In brief he told me Fred was going to be married. I explained to him I would recommend to Mr. Groner that he (Fred) not be allowed to participate in sports and if Mr. Groner agreed with me, he would be so informed."

Frantz contends he was never informed and in fact his son was allowed to play a full season of baseball and football before the board passed the resolution Dec. 18.

While on the stand young Frantz said he had to make a decision between playing in the school band or taking part in the interscholastic sports program. He quit the band and decided to concentrate on sports, he said.

He testified he would not have enrolled at Stroud Union in September, 1962 for his senior year if he had known the board were going to pass the resolution.

Other witnesses called yesterday were:

T. Manning (Cap) Curtis, supervisor of health and physical education for the Stroud Union School District. "Frantz is a very gifted individual as far as baseball is concerned," he said.

Dr. Frank D. Sills, director of graduate studies and head of the Physical Education department at ESSC, defined a school's curriculum, as "any activity sponsored by a school including clubs and so forth.

"The term extra-curricular is fast being dropped," he declared.

Yank Fliers Still Alive

MOSCOW (AP) — An East German nurse said Wednesday the three-man crew of an American reconnaissance bomber shot down Tuesday survived and one officer was injured slightly.

The United States asked the Russians to hand over the men and the wreckage of the plane as soon as possible.

The Soviet Union admitted one of its fighters shot the plane down and claimed it was on a military reconnaissance mission but refused to tell American diplomats the fate of the crew.

A protest note handed to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Walter G. Stoessel charged that American planes flying along the East-West border carry nuclear weapons. It said the Soviet air force had orders to shoot down any NATO plane that penetrates the air space of the Soviet Union or its allies.

In Washington, State Department officials said the Soviet note was received and was being studied. They pointed out that the spy charge against the plane had been rejected when the note was presented to the U.S. charge d'affaires in Moscow.

That warning was a reiteration of standing operating procedure.

The plane crashed near Gardelegen in East Germany, not far from the air corridor Western planes fly to Berlin and about 30 miles from the West German border.

A nurse at the hospital in Gardelegen, reached by telephone, said one of the three American officers was admitted Tuesday night but left soon after.

"He wasn't hurt much. He joined his other comrades," she said.

U.S. representatives from the military mission in Potsdam were en route to the crash scene.

Asked whether she could say who took the pilot away, the nurse replied, "No, definitely not."

"What were the officer's injuries," the nurse was asked.

"Light," she replied.

She said she didn't recognize the rank of the injured American officer.

Philadelphia Man

The U.S. Air Force has identified the three men as Capt. Davis I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn.; Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia, and 1st Lt. Harold W. Welch, 24, of Detroit.

They were on a routine training mission over West Germany when their two-engine jet strayed over to East Germany.

U.S. radar units in West Germany said they saw the Americans parachute when their jet reconnaissance RB66B bomber was brought down by the Soviet fighter.

Washington protested the hostile action, but apologized for the pentration of East German territory. It said the plane had strayed. It was the second such incident in six weeks. Another U.S. plane crashed in East Germany Jan. 28.

Stoessel said he asked Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Semyonov about the crew, but was told there was no further information.

'Thank God' Says Mother

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Dora Kessler, mother of Air Force Captain Melvin J. Kessler who was in a plane shot down by a Russian fighter over East Germany Tuesday, said "Thank God . . . it's wonderful" when notified he had parachuted with the two other members of the crew.

"We've had no official word from the government," she said "but we hope we will soon."

Kessler was instructor-navigator on the unarmed reconnaisance bomber. He was graduated from a Philadelphia high school in 1950, entered the Air Force as a private and reached his present rank 14 months ago.

Kennedy, LBJ Feud Discounted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, after discounting reports of a feud between President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, took pains Wednesday to play down the apparent value of any pro-Kennedy drive in the Wisconsin primary.

Feud talk coincided with an organized effort to have New Hampshire Democrats write in Kennedy's name for vice president in Tuesday's primary. The attorney general, who formally discouraged the move, made a strong showing although he didn't poll as many write-in votes as Johnson.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, was asked about the reported Johnson-Kennedy rift, and he said, "All I know about it is what I read in the newspapers."

Salinger disputed one published report, in the New York Herald Tribune, that Johnson an Kennedy no longer are speaking, because of personal and political friction.

"I think the President sees the attorney general on various matters from time to time," Salinger said.

State Capital Braces For Flood

HARRISBURG (AP — Flood waters surged down the broad Susquehanna River Wednesday night toward an expected crest of 22 feet in Harrisburg.

The capital city was bracing for possibly its fifth worst flood since 1865. The 22-foot crest expected at 2 a.m. would be five feet above flood stage and compare with the latest previous high mark of 21.8 feet in 1946.

Gov. Scranton's office announced that the chief executive, William G. Murphy, his executive secretary, and a representative of the State Civil Defense Office would take a helicopter tour of the flooding Susquehanna Thursday.

Scranton said at his news conference earlier in the day the state was keeping a close eye on flood developments.

At the same time, the agriculture department said it was calling all available inspectors into the flooded areas to check on food supplies, dairies, and manufacturing and processing plants.

In the city of Harrisburg, traffic backed up for blocks on the main arteries leading across the river into the west shore as overflowing water threatened to close approaches to three bridges leading out of the city.

State employes who live across the Susquehanna in the Camp Hill and New Cumberland sections were sent home an hour early in an attempt to alleviate the expected traffic jam.

Lowlands around Harrisburg were under water. Some highways were closed. City workers were barricading a five-block area along North Front St.

The flood sweeping into Harrisburg was the same one that has been harassing upriver residents for two days.

110,000 Flee During Floods

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Red Cross said it will set up disaster headquarters here Thursday to assist nearly 110,000 persons affected by the flooding Ohio River and tributaries in five states.

The center will aid flood victims in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The flood continued to chase families from their homes in the five states and was blamed for four more deaths Wednesday—bringing the total to nine.

The Red Cross said many of the 27,175 familes—nearly 110,000 persons — have been forced out of their homes. A total of 12,000 persons are living in 53 Red Cross shelters in the five states.

Seven of the flood-related deaths have been in Ohio and one each in Indiana and Kentucky.

The latest forecast said the Ohio will reach 66½ feet — which is 14½ feet above flood stage—early Thursday, remain stationary until Friday morning, and then begin to drop. A spokesman said there may be a few scattered showers in the Ohio Valley on Wednesday night, "but nothing significant as far as the river is concerned."

Sen. Scott Pushes Baker Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans have renewed their effort to point the flagging Bobby Baker investigation toward the White House and President Johnson.

With witnesses pleading the Fifth Amendment and Democrats indicating they are about ready to wind up the hearings, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Wednesday that Republican members of the investigating committee have submitted a list of a dozen or more witnesses they want called.

Scott said he wants the committee to review an affidavit from Don B. Reynolds, the insurance man who has said he bought Johnson a $585 stereo set.

Scott referred to the Reynolds affidavit, which speaks of a "kickback of commission" on a $100,000 life insurance policy sold to Johnson, as a new development.

L. P. McLendon, special counsel to the Senate Rules Committee conducting the inquiry, said an affidavit was turned over to the committee late Tuesday by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who started the investigation last October.

Good Morning!

If at first you don't succeed, that makes you about average.

State GOP Pushes UC Vote For Friday

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate spent two hours Wednesday debating whether it could debate as Gov. Scranton's unemployment compensation program moved a step closer to a showdown.

Senate Republicans hope to bring it up for a final vote Friday, despite uncertainty within its own ranks and Democratic efforts to delay action for further study.

"We are about to do an injustice to the working people of Pennsylvania and we should take a long look at these bills before acting," declared Minority Leader Charles R. Weiner, D-Philadelphia.

Democrats repeatedly attempted to debate the bill after second reading but were declared out of order by Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

In other action the Senate confirmed 159 executive appointments made by the governor and passed $6.3 million in appropriation bills for Scranton's 1964-65 budget.

Several times, Sen. William G. Sesler, D-Erie, attempted to interrogate Sen. Richard A. Snyder, R-Lancaster, one of the program's sponsors.

Each time he was interrupted by Majority Leader James S. Berger, R-Potter, and declared out of order by Shafer.

British Fed Up In Cyprus Clash

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Thousands of student demonstrators jeered and whistled Wednesday at British peace forces in Nicosia. As tension mounted, Britain warned it was fed up with the thankless task of trying to keep the peace between warring Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

One British army truck was stoned and the car of the British high commissioner, Sir Arthur Clark, was halted by students who pounded it with their fists. A rock just missed the car as it moved away.

British Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys said in London the position of British peace-keeping forces on Cyprus had become intolerable and that this situation must end. He said this British attitude had been conveyed to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in New York.

The Greek Cypriots also turned their ire on the United States, which like Britain has been accused of siding with the Turkish Cypriots in the communal dispute.

Some students in the parade through Nicosia's narrow steets carried a cartoon of President Johnson wearing a fez.

Britain has sent about 7,000 troops to this former colony to try to keep the peace since fighting broke out in December. British troops have come under fire from both sides and have fired back.

Western officials said leftists are behind the campaign to get the British out of Cyprus.

Old Glory Burned In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Thousands of Cambodians sacked the U.S. and British embassies and their information offices in a three-hour riot Wednesday. Blaming volatile students, the neutralist government promised to pay for the damage.

The Cambodian demonstrators hauled down and burned the flag over the U.S. Embassy and scattered embassy papers in the streets.

British Embassy cars were burned and some U.S. Embassy cars were overturned, but all personnel of both embassies escaped unhurt. Rioters also wrecked the building of the British Council, a private group promoting cultural interests abroad.

The U.S. charge d'affaires, Herbert D. Spivack, and British Ambassador Peter Murray protested immediately.

In a speech over the Cambodian radio, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, chief of state, expressed regret for the sackings and said compensation would be paid.

Premier Norodom Kantol blamed "excitable students" and said Communists had nothing to do with the rioting.

While expressing regrets, Sihanouk kept up his feud with the United States saying he understood why the people "might be angry at the imperialists."

He announced he was abandoning a plan for a four-power conference to guarantee Cambodia's frontier, which he proposed last month in what he called an effort to compromise differences with Washington.

The crowds appeared well-organized as they overflowed Boulevard Norodom.

Lodge's Win Analyzed

Have Rocky, Barry Lost Appeal?

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—The unexpected New Hampshire primary victory of Henry Cabot Lodge appears likely to enlarge the field in the Republican presidential nomination contest.

A snowballing write-in which gave Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, 35.4 per cent of the vote in a contest with three major contenders could be due in part to spontaneous dissatisfaction with the present front runners for the honor of opposing President Johnson in November.

'No Clear Call'

If Lodge's showing projected him into the thick of the presidential battle, it also served notice to other potential candidates, such as Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, that nobody can claim a "clear call" from the party faithful at this point.

Johnson himself gained some satisfactory evidence in Democratic primary voting that he commands a core of strength in New England, regarded as one of the weak spots in his general election armor.

The President polled nearly 28,000 write-in votes. In a similar write-in, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy got more than 24,000 as a potential vice-presidential candidate.

An absent, unannounced candidate, Lodge bowled over Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 presidential nominee. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Harold E. Stassen were left far behind.

The complete, unofficial count in the preferential contest showed: Lodge 33,521; Goldwater 21,775; Rockefeller 19,496; Nixon 15,52, Smith 2,812; Stassen 1,285.

Lodge collected all of the state's 14 nominating convention delegates. The outcome chalked up some political debit marks against a number of important state Republicans, including Sen. Norris Cotton, who managed Goldwater's campaign here.

Opponents promptly labeled Lodge a "New England favorite son," because of his Massachusetts residence. They dared him to come out fighting for the nomination.

In Viet Nam, where he is engaged in diplomatic tasks for the Johnson administration, Lodge learned of his victory while in Hue, 460 miles north of Saigon, on a fact-finding mission.

"I do not plan to go to the United States," he said. "I do not plan to leave Saigon. I do not intend to resign."

While his backers jubilantly claimed the New Hampshire results made Lodge a national candidate, there was sharp dissent in other quarters.

Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations during the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, will face his next primary test May 15 in Oregon, where he did not act to withdraw his name. There he will collide again with his New Hampshire opponents.

In New York, Rockefeller said Lodge can't leave his name in the Oregon primary "and stay on as ambassador."

Lodge cabled the Oregon secretary of state, Howell Appling, Jr., that he was not a candidate for the nomination because of foreign service regulations.

But Appling said in Salem: "He's on the Oregon ballot and will stay there."

Goldwater and Rockefeller, training their sights on California's June 2 primary, tried to shrug off the New Hampshire results as those of only a preliminary skirmish.

Defense Rests, Ruby No Witness

DALLAS (AP) — The defense rested abruptly Wednesday at Jack Ruby's murder trial. The state then sought to demolish his claim that he was insane when he killed Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Ruby, himself, did not take the witness stand.

In quick succession, the state called its psychiatric experts into the courtroom of Judge Joe B. Brown for the first time in the trial. They called Ruby sane, in direct contradiction to defense testimony that he was insane when he shot down Oswald Nov. 24.

Thus the big issue in the case finally was joined 3½ months after a chain of tragedy that began when Kennedy was mortally wounded just 70 yards from the courthouse and ended when Ruby killed the accused assassin, Oswald, two days later.

One of the state's experts, Dr. Robert Stubblefield, 44, a psychiatrist at Southwesten Medical School in Dallas, was asked to judge Ruby's condition on the day he shot Oswald. He was asked to assume that all state testimony in the case was true—that Ruby cursed Oswald as the President's killer, shot him, cursed him afterward and hoped for his death, and finally declared he had been planning the shooting for two days.

"If I assume these facts," Dr. Stubblefield replied, "he would know the difference between right and wrong and he would know the nature and quality of his act."

In short, in Dr. Stubblefield's opinion, Ruby would have been legally sane.

Another witness, Dr. John T. Holbrook, 40, a Dallas psychiatrist who examined Ruby the day after Oswald's death, put it even more bluntly, without any assumption whatsoever. He testified:

"I felt he did know the difference between right and wrong and did know the nature and consequences of his act at that time."

GOP Runners Go West

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The windup of New Hampshire's presidential primary beckoned the Republican candidates to California on Wednesday for a campaign that's certain to be as different as the climate of the two states.

Neither Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller nor Sen. Barry Goldwater is wasting any time in hustling out to California to begin their bids for support in the June 2 primary.

The New York governor, after running second to Goldwater and third to Henry Cabot Lodge in New Hampshire, set right off for Sacramento to launch a four-day swing.

Goldwater, the only Westerner in the race, arrives in the state Friday for his first intensive tour of his big Arizona neighbor.

Both candidates, along with Harold E. Stassen, plan to appear before state convention delegates of the California Republican Assembly in Fresno on Friday, hoping to gain their endorsement.

A fact-finding committee of the 14,000-member volunteer party organization has recommended, however, that it take no sides.

The candidates will be battling for 86 delegates to the Republican National Convention. It's the final preferential primary before the GOP convention in San Francisco on July 13.

It's a winner-take-all affair. Each candidate is represented by his own slate of delegates, who are bound to support him at the convention to the best of their ability and judgment.

State News Roundup

Waste-Carrying Streams Noted

WASHINGTON (AP)—An investigation by the Department of the Interior and Pennsylvania's Department of Forests and Water has revealed that a 100-mile stretch of the West Branch of the Susquehanna River is affected by tributaries that carry waste from bituminous coal mines in Clearfield and Cambria Counties.

These wastes lessen the value of the river for recreation or domestic use unless treated at their sources, the report noted.

The study also revealed that the river waters are corrosive to ordinary metals and concrete.

Edward F. McCurren, a chemist of the geological survey's Water Resources Division, who wrote the report, noted however, that throughout the river basin there are many tributaries of excellent quality that help to dilute dissolved solids and neutralize acidity in the main river where mixing occurs.

Updike Book Wins Award

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Centaur," by John Updike, a touching story of a father and a son in a small Pennsylvania town, won the $1,000 prize of the National Book Awards Tuesday, as the most distinguished fiction of 1963.

The winning novel is an unusual bit of counterpoint between the mortal and immortal worlds of Olinger, Pa., and Greek Mythology.

Updike was born in Shillington, Pa., in 1932, and often uses rural Pennsylvania scenes in his works. He now resides in Ipswich, Mass.

The book was published by Knopf and recently issued as a Crest paperback.

Pay Hike Sought For State Police

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Police Department is ready to inaugurate a new pay schedule July 1 which it feels will bring salaries on the 2,200-man force in line with police agencies of comparable size and scope.

All that is needed is approval of the department's new budget by the legislature and authorization by the State Eexecutive Board to enact the new compensation plan.

The general feeling here is that both are forthcoming.

What the plan does is to combine the state policeman's salary and his subsistence allowance into one payment.

Presently, an officer receives his base salary plus a $3.75-per-day subsistence allowance.

Leaders Head Demo Campaign

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Democratic State Committee Tuesday named former Gov. George M. Leader, Gladwyne, and Mrs. Rita W. Kane, Pittsburgh, to head its April 28 primary campaign committee.

Suspected Embezzler Critical

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)- Herbert U. Moore, 57, accused embezzler of $297,169, remained in critical condition Wednesday from gunshot wounds.

Sought since last July, he shot himself twice in the head Tuesday night as State Police and FBI agents approached his automobile in an isolated area near here.

Taken into custody with him was Mrs. Beatrice Diffenderfer, 40, a divorcee who said she married Moore last November in Mexico. They disappeared from nearby Lititz shortly before the shortage was detectived at the Courtesy Finance Service, Inc., there.

Mrs. Diffenderfer said they had been to New York, Florida, the Midwest, Canada, and California, as well as Mexico, since then and came back to this area recently because she was homesick.

She was quoted as saying she had no idea Moore was wanted or that police were looking for her.

Moore had $22 in his pocket when arrested. There was no indication if this was all that remained of the money he is accused of taking.

In addition to the embezzlement charges, Moore is wanted on charges of forgery, cheating by false pretenses and interstate flight to avoid prosecution. Mrs. Diffenderfer was wanted on charges of being an accessory after the fact and receiving stolen goods.

Party Lines Flexible In 1963 Voting

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — A majority of the Democratic Party opposed a majority of the Republican Party on fewer than half the roll - call votes taken in Congress in 1963.

A study of the '48 roll calls in Congress last year shows that the two parties' majorities opposed each other 47.7 per cent of the time in both chambers — 47 per cent in the Senate and 49 per cent in the House.

The 1963 score was about average. Only once in recent years (1961) have the majorities in the two parties opposed each other on more than 50 per cent of all roll calls.

Democrats voted unanimously on only three votes — one in the Senate and two in the House. Republican Party unanimity was almost five times as great — a total of 14 votes, seven in the Senate and seven in the House.

Other pressures on Congressmen, such as "liberal" and "conservative" leanings, always tend to obscure clear - cut party lines.

The Democrats, in fact, are divided into Northern and Southern blocs. These two groups opposed each other in Congressional voting in 1963 about one-fourth of the time, with the Southern Democrats often joining a majority of Republicans to form a "conservative coalition."

Obstructions to Party Unity

It is this type of voting that prevents party leaders from getting Members to follow a "party line." In fact, the leaders themselves sometimes voted in opposition to their party's majority position when it differed from the position of the majority of the other party.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert (D Okla.) joined Republicans against his Democratic party majority's position 5 per cent of the time in 1963. Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R Ind.)' opposed his Republican majority 22 per cent of the time when it was opposed to the Democratic majority.

In the Senate, the leaders tended to be with their majorities on Party Unity votes more consistently — whether leading or following is not exactly clear. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D Mont.) opposed his party 3 per cent of the time; Minority Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen (R Ill.) opposed the Republican majority eight per cent of the time.

The average Democratic Senator voted with his party on 66 per cent of the partisan roll calls and against it 18 per cent of the time. (Failure to vote lowers both percentages.) In the House the Democratic averages were 73 per cent support and 13 per cent opposition.

Republican Senators on the average supported their party's majorly against the Democrats on 67 per cent and opposed it on 18 per cent of the roll-call votes. The average scores of House Republicans were 71 per cent party support and 16 per cent opposition.

Mavericks

But there were some real mavericks in both parties and both chambers in 1963:

Democratic Senator Frank J. Lausche (Ohio) opposed his party's position, when it voted against the majority of Republicans, 79 per cent of the time. Southern Democrat Strom Thurmond (S.C.) ran a close second, with 72 per cent.

Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits (N.Y.) and Clifford P. Case (N.J.) voted with the Democrats 59 per cent and 48 per cent of the time respectively.

In the House, Rep. James A. Haley (D Fla.), with 77 per cent, and Rep. Joe Pool (D Texas), with 69 per cent, top all others in opposing their Democratic party majority positions in 1963.

Rep. John V. Lindsay (R N.Y.) had the highest opposition score among House Republicans, voting with the majority of Democrats against his own party on 52 per cent of the roll - call votes.

Goldwater

Not all the mavericks, however, achieved high scores in opposition to their own party in this study.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R Ariz.), for instance, never voted against the majority of Republicans when they were opposed to a majority of the Senate Democrats. But he did oppose the majority of his own party on important occasions when they adopted the same position as the majority of the Democrats, as when he voted against the nuclear test ban treaty and Senate passage of the college aid and foreign aid bills.

Scott Sways More Than Clark

WASHINGTON — Sen. Joseph Clark (D) scored 84 per cent for party support and 9 per cent for party opposition on the showdown votes in 1963 when a majority of one party opposed a majority of the other party on roll calls.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R) scored 56 per cent for party support and 26 per cent for party opposition in 1963.

The cop spotted her.

"Where is your house little girl?" asked the cop.

"I don't know but Duke does," she said.

So they hunted Duke, a German shepherd.

"Go home, Duke," said Patrolman Juan Deyes.

And Duke did.

And so did the cop and little girl.

And that's how Alicia Montez got home.

Know the old army story about the pre-med student becoming a baker and the chef becoming a medic?

The Army is aware of the mismatching too — it says it is trying to do something about putting square pegs in round holes.

The question of mis-assignment came up in a closed House appropriations committee hearing.

And when the Army was asked what it is doing about the age - old problem. The Army promised it is trying to do something about it.

But quickly added, "We don't hope to be 100 per cent perfect."

Mrs. Marian Poxon, a spunky 48-year-old Michigan grandmother gets today's prize for being the most persuasive.

This week, using a motherly approach, she talked an escaped convict, Lester R. Dionne into giving himself up.

He did.

The woman talked him into surrendering after he threatened to kidnap her daughter-in-law. The spunky grandmother offerred to take the convict wherever he wanted to go. It was during the drive, that she became persuasive.

Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-NY, thinks the price of drugs is outrageous. He says that further legislation is needed to protect the consumer.

He wants a law enacted that would require compulsory licensing of patent drugs. The measure would permit all competition to produce a drug which has been patented for more than three years if the price of the product to the druggist exceeds 500 per cent of all production costs, including research and overhead expenses.

Apathy Hit With Air Pollution

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A U.S. senator criticized state and local governments Wednesday for what he called their apathy toward air pollution.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said air pollution has an unquestionable impact on health, particularly respiratory diseases.

Muskie, chairman of a special Senate subcommittee on air and water pollution, added that increased federal action not only is necessary but justified.

He spoke at the concluding session of the National Health Council's three-day annual convention. The council is made up of 71 national health organizations and federal agencies.

Muskie said a year-long study of air pollution by his committee, which held hearings in six major cities, has convinced him of its "unquestionable impact" and role in causing emphezema and lung cancer.

"There is a definite correlation between this problem and lung cancer," Muskie said, but added that is "more difficult to check that cigarette smoking because there are so many factors."

Muskie's committee so far has investigated only air pollution. He expects to open hearings this spring on pollution of streams and rivers.

The senator suggested four ways the federal government may increase its role in pollution control:

Enact legislation that would establish performance standards; enact legislation that would permit enforcement of such standards; undertake research on a scale too costly for states; offer tax incentives to industries installing pollution control devices.

Muskie strongly endorsed the tax incentive approach. He said an amendment to the recent tax -cut bill that included such incentives was dropped by House-Senate conferees but would be brought up again next year.

Musmanno Urges UN Guard Israel

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP)—Justice Michael A. Musmanno of Pennsylvania's Supreme Court said Wednesday night the United Nations should guard Israel's water pipelines against Arab raiders to keep the peace in the middle East.

Musmanno, in prepared remarks at a meeting of Pioneer Women, the Women's Labor Zionist Organiation of America, said "the threat of the Arab countries to make war on Israel if she uses water from the Jordan (is) a sin and an offense against humanity."

Musmanno is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate from Pennsylvania. The primary election will be held April 28.

The justice said he is confident the U.N. "will accept the responsibility of preventing war between the Arab nations and Israel."

The Lenten Story

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

THE FIELD OF BLOOD

Realizing at last the enormity of his crime, Judas returned to the temple with the 30 pieces of silver and tried to give them back to the chief priests.

"I have sinned and betrayed innocent blood," he confessed.

When the chief priests refused to hear him out, he flung the pieces of silver into the temple, then, in despair, went out and hanged himself.

The chief priests were at a loss what to do with the money, arguing among themselves that "it is not lawful to put them into the treasury, seeing that it is the price of blood." Finally they used it to buy the potter's field as a burial place for criminals and strangers. To this day, the field is still called "Haceldama," which means "the field of blood."

Court Settles Keiper Estate

STROUDSBURG — Sarah A. Keiper, of Long Pond, has been awarded $863.11—the reminder of the estate of the late Arch Keiper, of Long Pond.

Originally testamentary letters were issued to C. E. Gantzhorn, and a last will and testament was subsequently found, and issued to Harold C. Eaton.

Judge Fred W. Davis of the Monroe County Orphans' Court noted in his opinion that an audit was held of the estate, and after bills for headstone markers, legal fees, and insurance on the late Arch Keiper's house—which had burned subsequent to the making of the will, the $863.11 was left.

Along with the remainder of the estate, Sarah Keiper was also awarded Arch Keiper's plot of land by Judge Davis.

The plot contains 3,375 square feet and is situated in Long Pond.

Atty. Walter Olenick appeared before the court for C. E. Gantzhorn, and John J. Pentz, Jr., appeared for Harold C. Eaton.

For The U.C. Bill

We support the amended unemployment compensation reform bill as an improvement over the present situation and urge our legislators in Harrisburg, State Senator William Z. Scott and Monroe County Representative Van D. Yetter, to vote for it.

Senator Scott has not yet announced how he will vote, although he is Senate Republican caucus leader and his vote is needed by Republicans who hold a slim 27-23 majority in the Senate, where Democrats flatly oppose the bill.

But he has prepared the groundwork for a positive vote.

"Something has to be done. The fund is in dire shape," Scott told The Daily Record. He is right, and so is Governor Scranton on this basic point.

On Feb. 15 the unemployment compensation fund totaled $141.7 million while Pennsylvania still owed $169.6 million to the federal government for previous loans.

The Scranton administration aims for a $300 million fund reserve, while the national AFL-CIO organization has recommended a $540 million reserve to make sure that workers are paid during recessions.

It is a long way from the present deficit to a $300 million or $540 million reserve.

Senator Scott insisted that a proposal, limiting jobless benefits for seasonal workers in the summer and winter resort and food processing industries to the season in which they normally work, be struck from the bill.

The Carbon County Republican said he favored other changes in the original Scranton proposals "which make it a better bill."

He supported leaving the minimum weekly benefit at $10 instead of raising it to $15; softening "burden of proof" and post-pregnancy requirements; limiting "double dip benefits to individuals who work four weeks between the first and second 30-week round of benefits; reducing payments to people already receiving pensions; and increasing the wage base for employer payments to the fund from $3,000 to $3,600, while dropping the minimum employer rate from two to one per cent.

We disagree with softening the "burden of proof" section, which would have given the state only "discretionary," not "mandatory" power to require an active search for work. And we disagree with dropping the minimum employer rate from two to one per cent while the fund is in such "dire shape."

But we support Scott on the rest of his positions and hope he finds these amendments enough to justify a vote for the bill.

Labor union leaders and Democrats who oppose the original and the amended bill have offered some valid criticisms of the bill, but in the main their arguments have been partisan and emotional appeals.

They have ignored the fact that the unemployment compensation program is paid for completely by employers. There are no employe contributions, as there are in medical, pension and Social Security programs.

Democrats and labor leaders have also ignored the fact that unemployment compensation was designed in 1937 to help regular workers who are temporarily unemployed, not the chronically unemployed.

Unemployment is a serious problem in Pennsylvania, but it must be combatted with retraining programs, new industries, and an expanding economy.

When jobless workers become destitute and trapped in depressed areas, public assistance welfare programs must be used, rather than unemployment compensation, for long-term help.

We don't think this is a "cruel and inhuman" bill, as the state AFL-CIO maintains. Neither do we agree with Scranton and big business that the deficit fund is keeping new industry out of Pennsylvania.

A deficit fund is in itself not healthy for employers or workers. It should be corrected, with employers paying more and some unemployment benefits being cut back.

Barry And Cassius Compared

Defeat is bitter, particularly when you boast of certain victory. Victory predicted is sweet, but dangerous.

Senator Barry Goldwater's defeat in the New Hampshire primary is an interesting contrast to the upset victory of Cassius Clay in the recent world championship boxing fight.

Before the boxing championship, Cassius Clay, 7 to 1 underdog, boasted, "I'm the greatest. I'm going to beat the world. I'm going to beat that bum."

After the battle, which he won with surprising ease, Clay boasted again, "I'm the greatest, I upset the world."

In contrast, Sen. Barry Goldwater, once the overwhelming favorite to sweep the New Hampshire primary, said before the election, "I've got it made."

After losing the primary in an equally surprising upset to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Sen. Goldwater said, "I must have goofed some place."

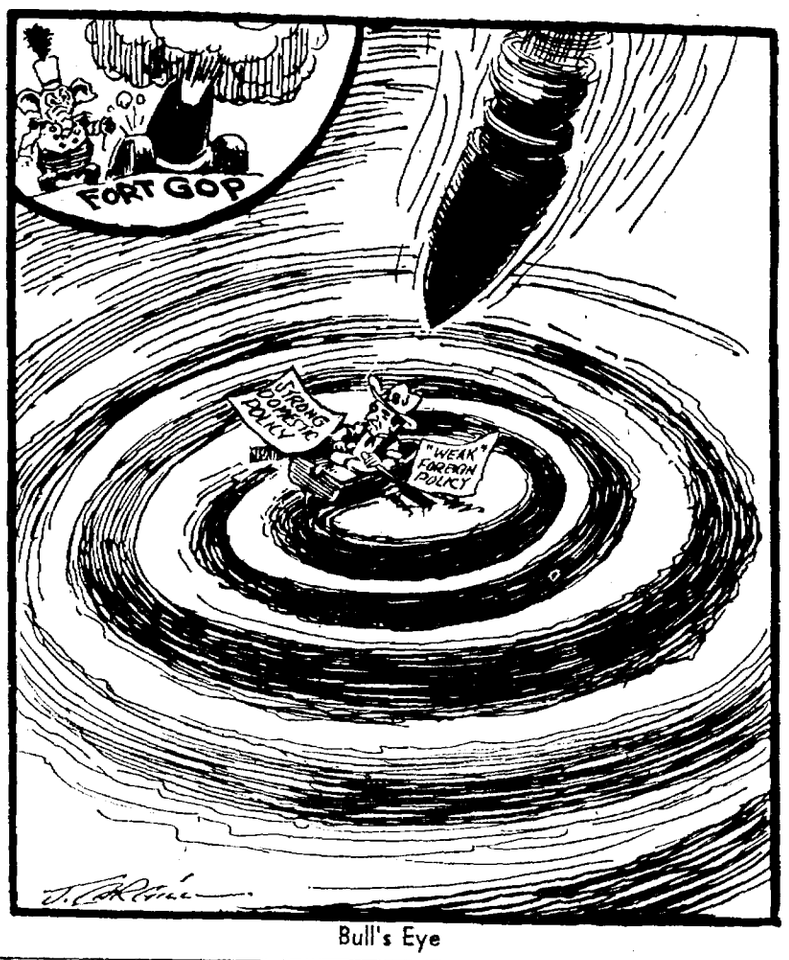

Perhaps the senator has learned a lesson in New Hampshire that boasts of victory are more dangerous in politics than they are in boxing, where you have only one foe to knock out.

And the fact that Lodge spent only 25 cents on an air mail letter telling his son it was okay to have people write his name in, while Goldwater and Rockefeller spent more than $100,000 each in a hard campaign, makes the defeat even more bitter.

Bull's Eye

The Pennsylvania Story

Campaign Moola

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Perhaps no single problem is more bothersome, more vexing or more essential to solve insofar as Pennsylvania Democrats and Republicans are concerned this year than that of finding ways and means of raising the necessary campaign moola to finance their respective campaigns.

Financing campaigns in a presidential election year is more of a pain in the ballot box than a gubernatorial election year, which in itself is bad enough.

The problem of financing is one of those nettling items no one ever likes to bother with — and yet if there's going to be a campaign it has to be financed.

Contemporary political campaigns no longer can be financed by saving chewing wrappers or emptying stray piggy banks.

It's big stuff today in Pennsylvania and in major campaigns such as this year's tally-'in-tea standoff the overall cost for each party will exceed the million-dollar mark.

It is true the $10 to $100-a-plate campaign fund raising dinners that will be held throughout the hustings and the big $100-a - plate dinners here in the Capital City provide the backbone for much of the effort in filling party coffers.

But even these somewhat lavish scrambled egg affairs do not solve the problem completely by any means.

For example, while the $100-a-plate munch session scheduled by Pennsylvania Democrats for this June, with LBJ and his hat as the main attraction, will produce an estimated half - million dollars, it can readily be seen that it's going to make considerably more than the famous Texas headgear to really bring in the snap, crackle and pop of heavy campaign folding money.

Keystone State Democrats in this presidential year will no longer have the "prestige" of state payrollers behind their suggestions for purchase of the $100 tickets. This year it is strictly a voluntary affair—and the volunteers in Democratic ranks have thinned considerably within the past two years.

In fact Democratic ranks have thinned considerably, period. As this thinning takes place, the bank roll thins too. This year will be one of the toughest for Keystone State donkey riders.

For their counterparts on the Republican side of the swamp, affaires fiscal are looking up, and while having taken over Capitol Hill once again, they are by no means in the well oiled position GOP-sters would like to see them—not yet, at least.

Added to this is the "complication" tossed in the GOP political old pros by Governor Scranton who has stepped up the list of civil service "untouchables" plus evidencing a well known reluctance to countenance the GOP fiscal touch of yore on state payrollers in general.

From the standpoint of cash in the proverbial sock, Pennsylvania Democrats are in fairly decent shape to begin with; that is, they still have in their till a modest petty cash fund that is a carryover from their more affluent and prosperous days of eight years ago when they were in the saddle on Capitol Hill.

For Keystone State elephant riders the story is a little different. By the time they got through losing eight years of political battles they were in hock up to their scuppers. Since the Scrantonian success of 1962 much of this debt has been liquidated; the red ink is turning blue, and the cash register is beginning to jangle once again.

Thus at this point both parties are about on a par on the fiscal front, but both have rough roads to travel on this financial front ere a new President has been elected this year. Actually, the fiscal battle for both is only just beginning.

Before the year is over chances are good that one—or both — will be in rather fancy hock. A presidential campaign —with all the allied "critical" offices — isn't run anymore on the proceeds from the sale of bananas; there just aren't enough bananas!

Off The Record:

—By BOB CLARK

Unusually Quiet Front

With the primary election only two months away there appears little activity on the Monroe County front.

Yes, there have been more than a few meetings held by political parties on the borough and township level. However, none are making big headlines or fusses on the scale of other years.

Probably the three chief topic of conversations are the Rep. Fred B. Rooney vs. Dr. George Creitz battle for the Democratic nomination for the 15th Congressional District seat; Atty. J. Joseph McCluskey vs. Mrs. Grace Palmer for the Democratic state committeeman, or if you please, committeewoman post; and the John L. (Jack) Davis vs. John (Jack) Ferrebee runoff for the Republican nomination for Monroe County assemblyman.

People - in - the - know in Democratic and GOP circles are not going out on any limbs yet. You hear rumbles about support for this person or "I owe my allegiance to that one" but in the main no particular element of either side of the fence is offering any concrete support.

Maybe the politicos are getting their second wind. Possibly within the next month the fur will fly. There is no doubt that Dr. Creitz has his followers and will peck away at Rep. Rooney; Mrs. Grace Palmer will charge into McCluskey's baliwick (backing); and Ferrebee will attempt to eat away at Davis' expected support in the mountains.

Veteran observers claim you can't leave a sleeping dog lie in politics. There has to be some skeletons pulled from the closet, it was pointed out.

If this is the case the walls of Jericho will come tumbling down before too long.

Maybe, though, the candidates will wage so - called "peaceful" campaigns with reservations — a word that stretches more than the imagination.

Actually, the primary will be unusually quiet in comparison to other years. Wait, though, until November when both parties start feeling the sting of winter again.

The Allen-Scott Report

Murder Mystery

Robert S. Allen — Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — In grappling with the still-far-from-resolved mystery of who and what was behind Lee Harvey Oswald's assassination of President Kennedy, the special investigating commission is now focusing much thought and effort on a series of baffling questions.

These significant questions have surged to the fore as a direct result of the weeks of testimony and evidence compiled by the commission so far. This information, while shedding some light on the key engima of the motivation behind the murder, has raised more questions than have been answered.

Primary reason is that these salient questions deal with a phase of the killer's life that is still murky and unexplained —the three years he spent in Russia as an avowed defector, and official U.S. records on his strange case and what happened to him.

Whether the commission will ever get any clarifying answers remains to be seen. It hasn't so far, and apparently has a long way to go.

That is evidenced by the time and attention the probers are concentrating on these matters. Also by the witnesses slated to appear at closed door- sessions in the near future.

They include FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Central Intelligence Director John McCone, and Mrs. Ruth Paine, who befriended the Oswalds, particularly his Russian wife, before and after the assassination. Hoover and McCone have submitted detailed reports to the commission, but individual members have indicated they want to personally discuss certain matters with them.

Another possible witness is Yuri Nossenko, the high-ranking secret police official who recently defected in Geneva and was granted U.S. asylum.

Nossenko might be in a position to know quite a bit about Oswald and his widow, Marina. Nossenko was in the "American section" of KGB, which afforded him access to plans and operations of Soviet agents in the U.S.

Still - Unanswered Questions — Mrs. Paine is considered by commission members as a potentially key witness.

They point out she was on close terms with the Oswalds, particularly the widow, months before the assassination. Also that she befriended Mrs. Oswald after the murder, but that lately coolness has developed between them. The probers are curious about that, and want to know the reason.

A well - informed and energetic Quaker, Mrs. Paine has been active in liberal causes, among them furthering U.S.-Soviet relations. She is credited as having talked with Oswald about his views and activities.

How much light Mrs. Paine can or will shed on the salient questions being pondered by the commission is conjectural. In substance, these unresolved puzzles boil down to the following:

How and why Oswald and his wife apparently had no difficulty in meeting and going around together, although Russians are required to immediately report to police any association they have with foreigners. The commission so far has no information on whether Mrs. Oswald did report her association with Oswald and, if she did, how and why that was allowed — especially in view of the fact that her uncle is a colonel in the Soviet army.

How and why Oswald was able to marry Marina with such apparent lack of difficulty. Other foreigners have encountered great obstacles in marrying Russians, particularly in taking them out of the country. But there is no evidence Oswald had any trouble at all in marrying Marina, and obtaining permission for them to leave the Soviet.

How and why Oswald was able to get a job that paid him about twice what his wife was making. Although basically unskilled, he quickly secured employment at $88 a week as a so-called radio technician. Marina, with the equivalent of a junior college education and a trained laboratory technician, received only $46 a week. The probers view these facts as particularly unusual and far from coincidental.

What U.S. authorities in the Moscow embassy did about Oswald, especially in view of his announced defection and desire to renounce his American citizenship. Was a check made on Oswald? Was a report submitted to the State Department, and if so what was done about it? Were the CIA, FBI and Secret Service informed? The commission has no indication that was done, and wants to know why.

Also deeply interesting the investigators are the whereabouts and activities of Jack Ruby, slayer of Oswald, on the day of the assassination.

A detailed report on that is before the probers. One of Ruby's attorneys proposed appearing before them to recount his story, but the offer was declined. After Ruby's trial, the commission will consider whether to personally interrogate him.

Dear Abby

It's A Sad Fact, Mother

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What does a mother do when a son she loves almost forgets she exists? His wife writes all the letters from both of them, and they all go like this:

"Hi" (no "Dear Mother" — nothing, just "hi"): We are fine. How are you? It is raining out. Just had coffee with a friend. (No name) 'Bye now. I have to get supper."

Signature of both by wife.

How can young people forget all their mothers did for them? Where is their appreciation? It hurts to be treated this way. Is there a solution?

ACHING HEART

DEAR ACHING HEART: Although the letters are rather meaningless, an effort is being made to communicate with you. You can't get love, attention, respect or anything else from an offspring who doesn't wish to give it. There is no solution, but the less you dwell upon it the less your heart will ache.

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering giving my daughter dancing lessons. She likes ballet and toe - dancing. My sister recommends the dancing school she has sent her daughter to for 12 years. She says the teacher says her daughter is a marvel.

Every year this dancing school holds a recital, and all the students canvass the town selling tickets for it. If a dancing student wants to do a solo, she has to put up $25 extra, besides paying for lessons all year. I am wondering why a girl would have to pay $25 to dance alone on a stage if she is such a marvel. If you were in my place, would you send your daughter to such a school?

MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: It sounds like a very costly way to keep a girl on her toes. Find a dancing school without gimmicks.

DEAR ABBY: I have a girl friend who has a boy friend who lives on my street. This girl friend writes notes to this boy every day and sends them to him by me. I don't know what these notes say, but he doesn't seem too glad to get them and he never sends any back to her. I am tired of running these notes, and want to know how I can get out of it without getting her mad at me.

MESSENGER GIRL

DEAR GIRL: That's easy. Tell your friend you think she is being too forward. (She is.) That the boy doesn't appear to appreciate her notes. (He does not.) And you are tired of running notes. (You are.) And if she "gets mad," she's not much of a friend.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RENE: Your friend appears to have two hats. One to wear and the other to talk through. Hand him the first one!

Speaking Of Your Health:

Men In Pink

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Uniforms in pastel shades of delicate pink, baby blue and nile green may be the answer to alleviating an infant's anxiety in the presence of a doctor or nurse. Lusty expressions of dislike for the temperature-taking, injection - giving men and women in white were found to diminish when these "ogres" wore attractive colors.

This interesting psychological phenomenon was noted in the children's wards of the Teaching Hospital at the University of Florida. Stark white uniforms were then replaced by warmer, less forbidding hues.

Rewarding Experiment

A non-scientific but rewarding experiment was instituted by two understanding and psychologically perceptive nurses, Carol E. Bradshaw and Nancy Cheng. They recorded the reactions of infants and young children when approached first by a nurse in a white uniform, then by one in a softer shade.

During feeding, bathing and administering of medicine it was noted that the children were calmer, more relaxed and more amenable when nurses wore pretty pastel colors, not the antiseptic white of authority.

Mrs. Bradshaw observed, "It frequently turned out that the nurse in ordinary clothes could give care to a child without any trouble even after the same youngster had reacted violently merely at the sight of a uniform."

Seemed Consistent

This response seemed to be consistent with children between the ages of nine months and five years. Mothers, too, recognized that their children were far less apprehensive when handled by nurses in colorful clothes. The warmth of color seemed to invoke a feeling of ease and trust.

Of greatest significance in this observation about uniforms is the recognition of the emotional needs of children who are separated from their homes, their families, and security. The compensating devotion and affection they receive from nurses and other personnel can carry them through the difficult transitional period until they once again return to their families. And if uniforms in pastel colors can help, why not?

How would Dr. Kildare look in mauve and magenta?

SAY "AH——"

"Don't use that stick! I can open my mouth wide enough!"

This is the common plea of the wide - eyed, frightened youngster who beseechingly seeks the last reputable excuse to avoid gagging.

"Sticks," with the more dignified name of tongue depressors, have been jammed, rammed, pushed and forced into the mouths and down the throats of children for years. The stick becomes to many children the authoritarian symbol of the inevitable gagging during a throat examination.

But it does not have to be.

Slighted Voters

By Walter Lippmann

Low-Level Campaigning

Writing this piece after the New Hampshire campaign has ended, but before the returns are in, I am struck by the low estimate placed on the American voter by practicing politicians. The outstanding fact about the New Hampshire primary is that no one of the candidates, declared or undeclared, has thought it necessary to make even one considered speech addressed to an adult and informed audience.

The two leading declared candidates — Governor Rockefeller and Senator Goldwater — have mentioned most of the topics, domestic and foreign, which are of vital interest to the country. Not even once has either of them discussed any of these topics with any thoroughness or with the recognition of complexity which enables a voter to judge what the candidate would do if he were responsible for action.

They have mentioned Cuba, Vietnam, NATO, inflation, the budget, taxes and civil rights. Neither of them has seen fit to treat any part of the New Hampshire electorate as fully adult and genuinely concerned. It is no exaggeration to say that the intellectual and moral level of this primary campaign reflects the degradation of the democratic process.

It is a significant comment on the quality of the primary that while the two declared candidates were traipsing all over the state like mountebanks trying to beguile the boobs, the undeclared candidates seemed to be gaining strength. I do not know how large a write-in vote Mr. Lodge will obtain. But each vote for a man who has made no speeches at all will be a reflection on the candidates who have been making speeches a dozen times a day.

What about the Rockefeller and Goldwater estimates of the intellectual and moral level of the citizens of New Hampshire? Are the people as dumb as all that? If they are, the outlook for popular government is pretty dismal.

My own view is that Senator Goldwater was just being natural and was on the level to which he belongs.

But in the case of Governor Rockefeller, what we have been witnessing is a man acting on the prime fallacy of the public relations business. These students of human nature have found through elaborate investigations what is really quite obvious and indeed a truism.

It is that most of the people can and do pay only a little attention to public affairs, they are easily distracted, they are too busy and they are interested in other things. The commercialized mass media cater to this condition of the public mind. They keep their signts down to that level.

But in public life and indeed, I would say, in journalism and the arts, it is essential to aim higher than the average of the mass audience. For while the men and women who are informed and concerned are only a part of the people, they are a leading part. They have influence far beyond their numbers, not because they are any better than anyone else, but because they are believed to have taken the trouble to earn the right to speak on some subject

Stories Behind Words

Carat

In ancient times the weighing of small items, such a previous stones, presented a problem. There were no precision scales as there are today.

The Arabs noticed that the seeds or beans of the carob tree did not vary in weight once they were dried. They used these beans as a standard for weighing precious stones.

The Arab name for such a bean was "qirat." In weighing a precious stone, they balanced its weight with beans, or "qirats."

"Qirat" became "carato" in Italian and "carat" in English. In addition to being a standard unit of weight for precious stones, "carat" also is used to express the relative purity of gold alloys.

County's Assessed Value Ups '64 Yield $130,433

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — According to the 1964 proposed Monroe County budget, a total levy of eight mills plus one on the county's assessed value of $72,-803,775 will yield $583,230.20 from eight mills plus $72,903 from one mill.

The added mill this year is set aside to finance the $660,000 Monroe County Home project.

Last year $558,551 was received from eight mills. The increase from the eight-mill tax this year is due to an increase of $3,000,000 in county value.

After the usual 15 per cent uncollectable taxes are deducted, the county expects to get $632,713.87 from real estate taxes this year. This compares with $502,280 after the 15 per cent reduction last year.

Last year the budget estimated that $36,800 would be received from an occupational assessment of eight mills on $4,-649,330. The county actually received $37,194.64.

This year the $37,194.64 figure has been budgeted for the revenue on occupation from eight mills, but the added one mill will give an extra $4,649.

Total Taxes

Total taxes this year come to an estimated $743,281.24, compared with a budgeted $602,460 last year and $649,506.22 actually received last year.

This figure includes a $65,000 figure on personal property, budgeted the same for this year and last. This tax is "four mills on interest - bearing obligations owned by individuals," according to Atty. Lester T. Brown of the firm of Mervine, Brown, and Newman, county solicitors who helped prepare the budget.

Total revenue receipts this year are estimated at $978,881.-24, compared with a budgeted $733,225 and $806,084.89 actually received last year.

Part of the non-revenue receipts is $300,000 for County Home construction reimbursement, "all from the federal government," according to Russell Mervine of the law firm.

Cash in bank now is set at $225,353.79, bringing total estimated receipts and balances this year to $1,899,708.79. This compares with a budgeted $979,-253.79 and $1,057,996.22 actually received last year.

Under expenditures, the County Home capital outlay is estimated at $650,000, and the total County Home Administration at $661,650.

The first figure is for the new construction. The latter figure includes the $650,000 capital outlay plus a salary for a new home administrator and smaller administrative sums.

"The exact salary of the new administrator has not been set yet," Mervine said.

Surplus food costs are budgeted at $8,010. "This figure is almost entirely the salary of the surplus food administrator, (Ray Saunders) an innovation this year. The reason there is no budget entry last year in this category is that last year the county received two budgets," Mervine said.

Included Welfare

"One budget was for the County Institutional District and included welfare. The other was general fund money," he said.

Total estimated expenditures and balances comes to $1,899,-708.79. Total expenditures for last year are not complete as yet, as there are still bills outstanding.

Total estimated receipts and balances for the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund come to $182,279.07. This money can only be used for road building or road improvement, or for bridges, under state law.

Expenditures under this program are $92,000 for municipalities and $14,450 for maintenance of roads and bridges. Total expenditures equal the receipts: $182,279.07.

Skytop Aide's Funeral Today

SKYTOP — Funeral services for Gene O'Boyle, 57, a former prominent resident of South Scranton will be held from the Walsh Funeral Home, 715 Linden St., Scranton, Pa., today at 9 a.m. with mass at 9:30 in the Church of the Nativity.

Burial will be in Cathedral Cemetery. The viewing will be held from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Mr. O'Boyle, a steward at Skytop Lodge at Skytop who had operated a catering business in Scranton died Monday morning in the General Hospital of Monroe County, where he had been a medical patient since last Wednesday.

Mr. O'Boyle was a former Lackawanna County sealer of weights and measures.

He was a brother of Michael O'Boyle of Scranton also a well-known South Scranton caterer.

A native of Olyphant son, of the late Michael and Helen Sullivan O'Boyle, he resided in South Scranton for years and had been in the grocery business there for some time.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for City Council on several occasions. He was secretary of the old South Scranton Merchants Unit, and was an active member of the committee which arranged a program for the opening of the South Side Pool in June, 1927. He also was general chairman of a successful water carnival at the South Side Pool in the summer of 1933.

He had been a member of the Eagles, Knights of Columbus, United Sportsmen, Scranton Sportsmen's Club, and Maple A. C.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Jordan; two sons, Eugene Jr, of Washington, D.C., and William R., of Scranton; a daughter, Mrs. F. J. Osbelt of Syracuse, N.Y.; a sister, Mrs. Marvin J. Barnes of Scranton; two brothers, Michael and Robert of Scranton; six grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Outdoor Restaurant Endorsed

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Borough Council has been told an outdoor terrace restaurant at the Penn-Stroud Hotel would add "quaintness and . . . value to local business," to the community.

In a letter sent to council, the Legislative Action Committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce urged the local solons to approve the hotel's request for such an eating facility.

The borough has an ordinance which prohibits such restaurants, if, among other things they are nat fully screened-in.

The letter, signed by R. M. Hoot, legislative committee analyst, noted many such restaurants operate throughout the state without screening but in compliance with all regulations of the State Health Dept.

At its last meeting council discussed the possibility of changing the ordinance but decided to write a letter to the hotel asking them if they will comply with the screening sections of the law.

Council has been informed by the health department that such a restaurant is permissable as long as the food is prepared in a sanitary place which has been approved by the Board of Health.

$5,105 Bid Accepted By Portland

PORTLAND — The Portland Borough called a special meeting Wednesday night in the borough hall for the purpose of awarding a contract for a new well for the borough owned water co.

The low bidder was R. H. Odenheimer Co. of Allentown. The firm bid $5,105 for a 500 foot deep well. Other bids were $6,097, $8,200, $11,458.50.

The bids were opened at the March meeting.

Senate Okays Dr. Rumsey

HARRISBURG — The State Senate yesterday approved the appointment of Dr. John L. Rumsey of Stroudsburg to the board of trustees of Allentown State Hospital.

Other area appointments confirmed by the Senate are Elwood R. Ammerman of Lake Ariel as a justice of the peace in Wayne County, and Thomas A. Gangewere of Greentown RD 1, Pike County, to the advisory board for boating.

PM Board Ups Teachers Pay

SWIFTWATER — The Pocono Mountain Joint School Board last night approved a motion to give teachers an added $300 per year for two years on their maximum salaries. Over 100 teachers attended the meeting.

Dr. W. Edmund Magann, board chairman, added a motion that would give experienced teachers more starting pay when first teaching in the district than inexperienced teachers.

The first motion is an equalized salary schedule drawn up by the Pocono Mountains Education Assn. of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn., and submitted to the Policy and Personnel Committee originally by William Bolles, chairman of the teacher's group.

$6,600 Or $7,200

At first the teachers approved of a one-year plan, whereby the maximum salary—based on seven or more years — would be based on eight or more years. For the eighth year, teachers would get $6,600 if they had a bachelor's degree or $7,200 if they have a master's degree.

Currently the seven year maximum is $6,300 and $6,900 for the two levels.

Under the approved two-year program, another year would be added. For this ninth years, those holding a B. A. would receive $6,900 and those with an M. A. would receive $7,500.

Not State Mandated

Splitting the increase—which is not state mandated—over a two-year period would save approximately $25,000 over the one-year plan, but would add $6,000 in cost, making a final savings of $19,000.

"This is strictly above what teachers would get on the mandated increases this year. It's pretty certain that Harrisburg will mandate such an increase as this, but it shows good faith that we give this increase now," Bolles said.

C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal of the jointure, said that "The increase is striving to bring our salaries more in line with East Stroudsburg's salaries."

Dr. Magann then relinquished the chair so that he could make a motion. He noted that the increases are based on continuous time in service in the jointure, and added that this was jointure policy.

"I move that we give credit for two years service to those teachers joining us from another district or those who have taught here and interrupted their service. This is if money is available. If enough money is available to give full credit for the two years to experienced teachers who are joining us, then we will do that.

"Proportional Amounts"

"If only a portion of the needed money is available, then we give proportional amounts to our new teachers," Magann said.

"This is subject to a ruling on the legality of the motion by the jointure solicitor, Alex Bensinger," he said after acting co-Haitor Philip Williams raised the question of the legality of the move.

Dr. Magann said that the money to finance the plan would come from budgeted money that would not be used. To illustrate, he said, "Suppose we have a teacher making $7,500, having taught here 15 years. This money is in the budget. Now say he leaves and we hire a new teacher at $4,200 to replace him. If the new teacher has one or two years prior service, the difference can be used to help him out."

In other business, the board set non-professional salaries.

Salaries for non-professional workers such as janitors in elementary schools were set as $3,-800 minimum and $4,400 maximum. For secondary schools, the minimum is $3,600 and the highest is $4,200. Increments would be $150 per year after the first year until the maximum is reached.

The business manager's salary schedule was set up thus: for a person with a high school education, $4,400 minimum; $5,400 maximum. With two years education past high school, it would be $4,800 minimum and $5,800 maximum. With a B. S. degree, it would be $5,400 and $6,200.

Increments would be $200 through the second and third years and $300 through the fourth and fifth years.

A motion was accepted following any teacher not 65 before the end of the term to teach another term.

Policy on student dress was set up by the student council and accepted by the board.

The board approved a motion to join the Poemont (four varsity sports) League.

Muriel Peterson was hired as a part-time workers in the business office at $1.50 per hour.

A dental hygenist for the school will be hired at $23.33 per day for 20 days.

PV Board Recognizes Two Teams

BRODHEADSVILLE — Pleasant Valley Joint School Committee voted to recognize the rifle and bowling teams of the school as school sponsored activities.

The action was taken at the request of Jack Newell, advisor to the bowling team, and Wally Butz, speaking in behalf of the rifle team.

Newell and Butz gave as their reasons for the requests that members of the teams are not covered by insurance unless the school committee recognizes the activity as a school - sponsored activity.

Newell said the bowling teams meet at the school and then travel by car to bowling alleys in Wind Gap.

Butz told the meeting that the rifle club convenes on Saturdays and Sundays on many occasions. These meetings are in addition to the regular sessions held during school hours.

Water Pure

In other business, John Mills, supervising principal, told the meeting that a water sample from the well, which had been sent to a state laboratory in Wilkes - Barre, was returned and the report showed the water pure.

Mills also told the meeting that application for reimbursement for rental payments from the township school boards in the jointure has been filed in Harrisburg.

The reimbursement amounts, by township, are as follows:

Chestnuthill, $6,230.94; Polk, $5,953.97, and Ross, $3,043.28.

Mills also told the meeting that pupil enrollment, as of March 1, 1964, totaled 748 pupils in all schools.

He broke this down by Township, elementary and secondary school. His figures are: Chestnuthill Twp., 206 in the elementary grades, and 145 in the high school; Polk Twp., 127 in the elementary grades, and 247 in the secondary school, and Ross Twp. has 87 in the elementary grades and 63 in the secondary school.

Trucker Held Hour In Jail

STROUDSBURG — George A. Gaul, a Lindhurst, N.J. trucker, pleaded guilty to a charge of vehicle not equipped with flares and flags, and was released from Monroe County Jail at 9:15 p.m. after an hour's confinement.

He was brought in by Fern Ridge State Police. He had been stopped by police on a routine vehicle check on Rt. 115.

Gaul was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Isaac F. Dyson of Long Pond. He was fined $30 and cost.

Bangor Schools Under Two Heads

BANGOR — The Joint School Committee of the Bangor Joint School System during its regular meeting last night approved the establishment of single school administrative authority in both the junior and senior high schools.

Prior to the action of the board, Dr. Trevor Williams, while serving as principal of the senior high school was also the administrative head of the junior high school. Millard L. Gleim was the junior High principal. Now the schools will be operated as separate units with the authority of the junior high solely in the hands of Gleim. Dr. Williams will have authority only over the senior high school.

Upon the recommendation of Dr. S. William Ricker, superintendent of schools, and the education finance committee, the following curricula changes were approved:

General mathematics and algebra I be offered as electives in junior high; all French will be taught to seventh grade pupils with a view that in two years, French I would be offered as an elective along with German I and Latin I at the ninth grade level in junior high.

Currently, French is only being offered in senior high along with four years of German and Latin.

Electives Approved

Electives in composition and journalism were also approved for 11 and 12 grades and vocational home economics classes in senior high were set at five periods a week instead of the current eight.

Also approved was the school calendar for 1964-65 of 190 days. Schools will open on Sept. 8, 1964.

Because of the unusual number of complaints the board took action to control pupils driving to school in cars.

Effective immediately the board gave the district administration authority to render whatever punishment it felt necessary for driving infractions and violations of the safety rules.

The transportation committee of the board in company with the solicitor, Atty. Edmund Turtzo, was instructed to prepare "iron clad" regulations relative to students driving to school for adoption at the April meeting.

A resolution calling for the approval of the establishment of one technical high school for Northampton County was formally passed by the board.

The board acknowledged a gift of $141.50 from a defunct school organization in Lower Mt. Bethel Township. The money will be used to buy books for the senior high school library.

The board accepted with regret the resignation of Miss Evelyn Reimel as an English teacher in the junior high school. She will retire after 38 years of service.

No Flood Danger In Sight

Pocono Streams Rise, Drop

STROUDSBURG — Warm weather and rains in the Pocono Mountains caused streams to rise, but all have crested and there is no flood danger in sight. This was pinpointed yesterday in The Daily Record survey in Monroe County.

Marvin Abel, Monroe County CD director, last night said, "Units of Civil Defense have been observing water conditions of area streams the past several days, and we now see no immediate danger in any flooding."

"The Delaware River reached its crest yesterday at 3 a. m. and then starting dropping. Ice on the river went out in January and this was in our favor, but in this area most streams could have taken about four or five feet before they would have flooded," he added.

Paul Grant, innkeeper at Shawnee Inn, said, "We have heard reports of the 18th hole being flooded but they are not true. The island is not under water and we see no immediate danger at this point."

He added, "We are doing some excavating on the island and the hole is filled with water. This is probably what the people see and are assuming the island is flooded."

Opening Postponed

STROUDSBURG—J. Calvin Siegman, manager of Rhodes Towne House in Stroudsburg, yesterday said the opening planned for Friday, March 13, has been postponed.

"We have run into some additional work in the building and workmen will be unable to complete it by Friday. It is hoped that we will be open some time between the 17th and 20th," he added.

Siegman said, "We received an interesting comment from Stroudsburg Chief of Police John Tretheway when workmen were erecting our new sign. Tretheway said, 'When you get that sign up and lit the borough can save some money by turning off some of the street lights.'"

Siegman added, "Of course, the borough will not be turning off any of the street lights, Chief Tretheway was only remarking about the size of the new sign."

Bradford Man Dies In Crash

COUDERSPORT, Pa. (AP)—An auto wreck near this Potter County town has killed Joseph J. Bradish, 40, of Bradford.

Bradish was an occupant of a car that crashed against a bridge abutment along Route 6 Tuesday night. A companion, Lawrence Fay, 38, of McKeesport, was injured and hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Syrians Rap U.S., Britain

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Premier Amin Hafez accused the United States and Britain this week of aiding Israel's plans for expansion at the expense of the Arabs.

President Johnson's speech last month, pledging American cooperation with Israel in nuclear research to distill sea water, is regarded here as "an aggressive act," Hafez said.

He also announced Syria's "all-out support" for Communist Chinese sovereignty over Formosa and admission of the Peking regime to the United Nations.

Five Day Weather Forecast

Five-Day Forecasts for Thursday, March 12th, through Monday, March 16th:

Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Southeastern New York — Temperatures are expected to average 3 to 9 degrees above normal. There will be slow moderation at the beginning of the period and little day-to-day change thereafter. Precipitation may total up to six-tenths of an inch melted, occurring as widely scattered showers about Saturday.

Middle Atlantic States—Temperatures will average 2 to 8 degrees above normal. Rising temperatures over the weekend will be followed by cooler weather the first of next week. Precipitation amounts will range from one-tenth to six-tenths of an inch occurring as showers about Sunday and a few showers or snow flurries in the mountain areas Thursday morning.

Western Pennsylvania—Temperatures are expected to average 3 to 5 degrees above normal. There will be rising temperatures through Friday, cooler weather Saturday but warming again thereafter. Precipitation will average about one-quarter inch melted as showers or snow flurries Friday night and again Monday.

Monroe Library Aid Increased

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG—State aid to Monroe County library, in Stroudsburg, amounting to $607.-00 in the current fiscal year, would be increased to about $759.00 in the 1964-65 fiscal period—should the Legislature act favorably upon a request by Governor Scranton for an increased library assistance appropriation.

The Stroudsburg library is the only local library in Monroe County qualifying for state aid.

State library officials said the greater aid to local libraries would result from the Governor's recommendation that the per capita allocation (the basis for state aid to libraries) be increased from 10 cents to 12.5 cents.

Paid $8,000

Monroe County library was paid $8,000 from state funds in the current fiscal year under the percentage aid phase of the state library assistance program.

This sum is the maximum paid to county libraries. Amount of the payment under this phase of the program is related to population and amount of an appropriation by the county commissioners on an annual basis for support of this facility.

Amounts paid to county libraries would not be affected by the increased state appropriation for library assistance, should the Legislature grant the increase.

Governor Scranton has requested a total of $2,705,853 for aid to qualifying libraries in this state, an increase of $625,-733 over the current fiscal year.

Included in this request is $79,850 for library service for the blind.

Four Deeds Filed At Courthouse

STROUDSBURG—Four deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County recorder.

They were Gladys E. and Roland W. Landmesser, of Thornhurst, to Warren L. and Tillie G. Getz, of Kresgeville, and Vance C. Megargel, Jr., of Mount Pocono, property in Coolbaugh Twp.

Also William J. and Helen V. Warke, of Allentown, to Dale E. and Jean M. Miller, of Greenawald, property in Tunkhannock Twp.; Pocono Lakeshore, Inc., to Edward Karaffa, of 720 Charles St., South Amboy, N. J., property at Pocono Lakeshores.

Also Daniel O. and June R. Cooper, of 45 Walnut Drive, Pine Brook, N. J., to Franklin V. and Alma M. Webb, of Delaware Water Gap, property in Smithfield Twp.

Rev. Dennis Elected Dean Of Area Synod

BANGOR — The Rev. William Dennis, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Bangor, was elected Dean of the Easton District of the Easton Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church in America at a special district meeting this week in St. Andrew's Lutheran Church, Easton.

The Rev. Dennis had been serving as secretary of the district embracing 40 churches in this area.

He replaces Rev. Paul Gleichman, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Riegelsville, who terminated his deanship because of ill health.

The Rev. Roy Meek of Easton was elected secretary replacing Rev. Dennis. The new dean who will serve out the unexpired year's term of Rev. Gleichman. Rev. Hand, administrative assistant to Dr. Samuel Kidd, President of Synod, officiated at the meeting.

Mrs. Hannah Schelbert will have the Ladies Aid Quilting meeting at her home on Thursday, all day.

The flag which is to fly at Wallenpaupack Area Joint Junior-Senior High School, and which had been flown over the capitol in Washington, was presented to the school at a special assembly program, by the VFW.

The Greene and Dreher Township School Boards will meet at 8:30 p.m., on Thursday at the school in a special session.

A meeting of the Youth Committee of the Wayne County Branch of the YMCA was held on Tuesday, March 10, at the home of Mrs. Sally Stanton, Honesdale. Business concerned plans for immediate and future opportunities for Wayne County youth.

The first reported robins of the year were sighted by Mrs. Willard Croft at Greentown, last week

Misplaced Shelter Found

NEWFOUNDLAND —A "misplaced" fallout shelter, in Greene Township, has been found.

The Greene Township Civil Defense had announced that two fallout shelters, complete with first aid emergency stations, were located within the township, one at the Promised Land Catholic Church and the other at the Roemerville Moravian Church.

However, the second shelter is located at the Hemlock Grove Methodist Church, Greentown, and there is none at Roemerville.

During the March meeting of the CD unit, at the Promised Land Inn, Ernest MacDougall, of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot, and Charles Flynn, spoke on fallout and radioactivity. An instruction course of six - week duration is scheduled for this spring by the unit.

Charles Walters presided at the meeting, and announced that the next session will be held on April 2 at the Hemlock Grove Methodist Church, Greentown.

Bangor Board Re-enacts Wage Tax

BANGOR — Bangor School Board re-enacted the one per cent wage tax originally initiated on May 2, 1960, at its meeting this week.

The board told solicitor Edmund Turtzo to proceed with advertising the tax.

In other business the board exonerated Isaiah Resh, tax collector, from collecting $9,780.05 in uncollected taxes and $489.03 in penalties from 1963 taxes.

The taxes will be sent to the Northampton County Tax Claim Bureau, Easton, for collection.

The board decided to transfer $10,000 from each of the interest accounts in the First National and Merchants National Banks to checking accounts.

Bus operators present reported on occasional student drivers breaking the law and endangering lives of other motorists and passengers in buses.

The drivers were instructed to make citizen arrests.

Portland Grade Holds Program

PORTLAND — The Portland School third grade recently presented a program of physical education skills under the direction of Miss Judith Wink of East Stroudsburg State College.

Movies on forest conservation and good outdoor manners were shown to the children through the courtesy of Asa Shumaker, local forest inspector.

The fifth grade has completed its course and received certificates for training in reference book materials, under the instruction of Mrs. Helen D. McNally of Stroudsburg, district manager for World Book Encyclopedia and Childcraft.

It was noted that the Portland School recently purchased a new edition of Childcraft Encyclopedia.

Butz President Of R-G Club

STROUDSBURG — Paul Butz was elected president of the Pocahontas Rod and Gun Club at a meeting last Monday night at the home of Paul Butz, Stroudsburg.

Other officers elected were Thomas Kistler, vice president; Harry Nace, secretary-treasurer. Claude Setzer, Charles Schaller, Charles Frank and Earl Bush were elected directors.

Nace said the club will stock its waters with bass sometime this spring.

After the meeting Butz served refreshments.

200 Young People Walk Way Of Cross At Rally

MOSCOW—"Walking the road where Jesus walked," nearly 200 young people from Pocono Subdistrict Youth Fellowship took the way to the cross during the Communion Rally held at the Methodist Church.

As Mary Ann Havenstrite sang "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," each member of the nine Youth Fellowships walked to the front of the sanctuary, and placed a dogwood blossom on the white birch cross. By the time the last person had made the pilgrimage, the cross was covered with the pink and white dogwood blossoms.

The Legend of the Dogwood was read by Ginger Parke, faith chairman of the sub-district.

The service began with the call to worship by Howard Beauman, of Hollisterville, president. The Rev. Marvin Schell, minister of the host church, officiated in the preparation for Communion.

June Ames and Miss Havenstrite sang "Let Us Break Bread Together."

Speaker at the service was the Rev. Denton Covert, minister of the South Sterling Methodist Charge.

"The world is yours . . . it belongs to you. What will you do with it?" he asked. "Commitment is what we would seek — commitment to Christ, although it involves a risk. To be good is not always popular, but the rewards are immeasurable".

Robert Behlke was host organist, and Mrs. E. Miller Smith was piano accompanist. Mrs. Elaine MacDonough is advisor to the unit.

Health Education Parley Slated For ESSC Tomorrow

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College will host the professional conference for health, physical Education, and recreation, tomorrow at the college campus.

Dr. Frank Sills, head of the Health and Physical Education Department stated: "The whole program is centered around the concept of adapted physical education.

"It is a specialized program for students unable to take part in all of the regularly scheduled activities included in a school's program of physical education."

The program will begin at 2 p.m. with a lecture by Miss Josephine Christaldi, in charge of Remedial Education for Philadelphia Public Schools. Miss Christaldi's topic is "The Remedial Program", to be given in the gymnasium.

Michael Flanagan, Department of Public Instruction, will speak on "An Interpretation of State Regulations for Health and Physical Education," in the gymnasium at 3 p.m.

Assistant Professor at East Stroudsburg State College, Gary Soderberg, will present a "Program for the Handicapped" at 4 p.m. in the school's gymnasium, Soderberg is in charge of a physical therapy program at the college.

At 6 p. m., delegates to the convention will be hosted at a dinner, which will be sponsored by the Monroe County Association for Health and Physical Education.

The conference will conclude with a presentation by Dr. Max Novich, Orthopedist, Newark, N.J. entitled "Physical Education from Birth." Dr. Novich will speak at 7:45 p.m. in the auditorium.

Dr. Sills also announced that there is a new state law stating that, beginning in 1966, all public schools must provide special programs for handicapped or disabled children.

He said that the problem will be one of having the present teachers in physical education return for in-service training.

The conference will be open, free of charge, to school administrators, physical education teachers, and alumni in the Northeastern Pennsylvania area.

Students in the Health and Physical Education cirriculum, along with any other interested persons will also be welcomed.

FAT OVERWEIGHT

Available to you without a doctor's prescription, our drug called ODRINEX. You must lose ugly fat or your money back. No strenuous exercise, laxatives, massage or taking of so-called reducing candies, crackers or cookies, or chewing gum. ODRINEX is a tiny tablet and easily swallowed. When you take ODRINEX, you still enjoy your meals, still eat the foods you like, but you simply don't have the urge for extra portions because ODRINEX depresses your appetite and decreases your desire for food. Your weight must come down, because as your own doctor will tell you, when you eat less, you weigh less. Get rid of excess fat and live longer. ODRINEX costs $3.00 and is sold on this GUARANTEE: If not satisfied for any reason just return the package to your druggist and get your full money back. No questions asked. ODRINEX is sold with this guarantee by: Rex & Uerick, 558 Main St. Mail orders filled.

'64 CHEVROLET—THE GREAT HIGHWAY PERFORMER

Chevrolet Impala Convertible

Nothing feels steep in a Chevrolet Impala (including the price!)

A hill is just something to admire the view from when you're driving a '64 Chevrolet. With engines up to a 425-hp V8*, getting from one side to the other wouldn't be much easier if somebody had put a tunnel there.

And if Chevrolet can go over a whole mountain so you hardly feel it, you can imagine how it goes over plain old bumps. Jet-smooth, of course. We put a big coil spring at all four wheels (not to mention 700 or so sound and shock absorbers throughout the body and chassis) to soak them up as fast as they come.

As you'd expect, Chevrolet turns in its usual fine performance with everything inside that big beautiful Body by Fisher, too. All kinds of stretch-out room and wide thick-cushioned seats that let you get in a full day's driving without fatigue. Yards of deep-twist carpeting and elegant fabric and vinyl upholstery that make you feel good just being there.

With all its looks and luxury, you can see how anyone might get the idea that this great highway performer is a high-priced car. Unless, of course, they happened to look first at its reasonable Chevrolet price.

And your Chevrolet dealer will be happy to show you that, wherever you drive, the price is probably what you'll feel least of all.

*Optional at extra cost.

E-Burg Man Chess Captain At Lafayette

EAST STROUDSBURG — James W. Heatherington of East Stroudsburg, a Lafayette College junior and chess team captain will be among five students engaged in the Intercollegiate Chess tournament.

Heatherington is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Heatherington of 182 South Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. He is a major in chemistry at Lafayette, and a 1961 graduate of East Stroudsburg High School.

Chess team members at Lafayette College are unbeaten to date in their third year of Eastern Chess League play.

The team's record so far this year is 6-0. Spencer R. Ankeney, senior from Pittsburgh, Pa., is president of the club.

The Lafayette team has twice defeated Kutztown State College and won one game each with teams from Lehigh University, Albright College, Muhlenberg College and Bloomsburg State College.

Ankeney said that the Lafayette chess club members would compete with each of the four latter institutions again during the 1963-64 year.

Westinghouse Cuts Force

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. is reducing its work force of 7,500 employes at its steam divisions in suburban Lester.

A spokesman for the corporation said Tuesday he could not give an estimate of the number of employes to be laid off, "but the payroll would be reduced on a selective basis."

L. E. Hedrick, vice president and general manager, said 1963 earnings were "extremely poor . . . the steam divisions showed no profit last year, in fact, it had substantial losses."

Graveyards For Cars Hit

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House Tuesday unanimously adopted a resolution proposing a study of ways to require removal of auto graveyards from public view.

The House also unanimously approved and sent to the Senate a resolution urging the State Highways Department to designate Legislative Route 188 between Dunmore and Dickson City, Lackawanna County, as the Harry P. O'Neill Highway.

A resolution calling on the U.S. Senate to delay approval of a proposal to expand the scope of the Delaware River Joint Toll Commission was introduced in the House.

East Bangor Firemen Hear School Head

EAST BANGOR—Dr. William Ricker, superintendent of Bangor Area Schools, was the guest speaker at the recent banquet of the East Bangor Volunteer Fire Co.

After Dr. Ricker's talk Mrs. Carol Messinger, president of the auxiliary of the fire company, presented a memorial plaque to the company.

Delmar Smith, president of the fire company, accepted the gift and told the meeting that it would be erected at the fire company's headquarters.

Smith introduced the officers of the company. They are: George Hower, vice president; Kenneth Lane, secretary; Arthur Weaver, treasurer, and Wayne Jones, financial secretary.

The officers of the auxiliary were introduced by Mrs. Messinger. They are: Mrs. Alta Moysey, vice president; Mrs. Helen Hess, secretary; Shirley Bisher, treasurer, and Mrs. Doris Davis, financial secretary.

Four County Youths Face Draft Call

HARRISBURG — Four Monroe County youths have been slated for induction in the March draft call while 15 other youths from the county will be called for pre - induction physical examinations during the month, State Selective Service Headquarters said yesterday.

The four youths slated for induction from the county during March represent a decline of eight from the past month's quota.

The 15 being scheduled for pre - induction physicals is an upswing of four over the number called for examinations in February.

All 19 registrants will come from local board 105, Stroudsburg, and report to Wilkes-Barre on March 26.

Scranton Ducks From Address

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A spokesman for Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton said this week the Governor made no definite plans to address Republican members of Congress.

Scranton last month was reported willing to appear before the group. At that time he was quoted as saying that March 9 would be an acceptable date.

Press secretary Jack L. Conmy said, however, that Scranton has no plans to go to Washington Monday because of legislative duties here. The state administration is attempting to win passage of controversial revisions of the unemployment compensation law in a special session of the general assembly.

Conmy said he was not sure whether Scranton would address the GOP congressmen or not. Plans at this point are indefinite the press aide said.

In Hospital

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Bessie Hendrick of Edge Mere Camp, near Marshalls Creek, has been admitted to the Allentown Hospital for surgery Sunday. She will be there for about nine days, according to Mrs. Fred Rinker, her sister.

151 Monroe Farms Signed For Feed Grain Program

STROUDSBURG — As of March 9, 151 farms in Monroe County had signed up for participation in the 1964 feed grain program, A. W. Martin, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Monroe County Committee, announced.

County farms eligible to take part in the program total 388. "Eligible" farms are those which grew one or more of the three feed grains — corn, grain sorghum, and barley — during the program's base years 1959 and 1960.

Feed grain acreage signed up for diversion through the program now totals 1885 acres, including 1826 acres of corn, 15 acres of grain sorghum, and 44 acres of barley. Feed grain base acreage of these participating farms amount to 2309 acres.

Based on farmers' intentions, as recorded at the ASCS County Office, these producers, will earn an estimated $80,178 in diversion payments for participating in the feed grain program this year.

Balance Supplies

Martin pointed out that the 1964 feed grain program offers farmers an opportunity to continue the progress of the past two years in balancing supplies with estimated needs.

At the same time, the program payments give participators a substantial return from their acreage in which they usually have a heavy investment, he said.

Under the program, a grower who reduces his feed grain acreage (of corn, grain sorghum, and barley) by at least 20 per cent of his farm's total base acreage will earn a diversion payment for shifting the acreage from production to a conserving use. (Payments for 1964 will average higher than last year and the maximum diversion is higher).

The participating grower will also qualify for a price-support payment on the normal production of the 1964 planted acreage of the three crops, and for loans or purchase agreements on all the corn, grain sorghum, and barley produced on the farm's 1964 acreage.

Martin reminded farmers that the program signup is now under way at the county office and will extend through March 27. He urges an early signup as the best way to avoid the delays and crowded office conditions which could develop as the deadline nears.

Pen Argyl 4-H Club Elects Aides

PEN ARGYL — Sandra Jones was elected president of the West Pen Argyl 4-H Club at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Walter Beal.

Other officers elected were Sandra Schoch, vice president; Linda Bray, secretary; Patricia Genke, treasurer; Linda Lobb, game leader; JoAnne Davey, song leader; Barbara Smith, reporter, and Margaret Metzgar and Miss Bray, junior leaders.

Members voted to hold a sewing project this summer, and to hold a bake sale on May 16 at Dotter's Market, West Pen Argyl.

The club will participate in the day camp at the Nazareth Park this summer and will attend the Plainfield Farmers Fair in July.

Plant 'Bare Roots' Soon As Possible

PLANTING SHRUBS: Most of the trees and shrubs sold at nurseries are bought "bare root".

That means the plants are dug in the fall, without earth attached (ball and burlap), stored for winter and sold the following spring as "bare root" stock. Because such plants have no protection on the roots, you should plant as soon as possible, or keep them in a cool place where the roots will not dry out.

Keep the roots damp and covered with sawdust, peatmoss or the material used by nurserymen. Do not unpack trees or shrubs and heel them in the ground where they are exposed to driving winds and sun before planting.

A cool, damp cellar is better. If the roots are allowed to dry out, the plants may never respond after you plant them.

All bare root trees or shrubs should be pruned BEFORE you plant. Pruning consists of nipping off the tips of the roots and tops as well. Pruning the roots back is just as important as cutting the tops.

Here's why: root-pruning encourages tiny feeder roots to start from the ends of the old roots. These little feeders will not develop if you don't trim back an inch or so.

In other words, root-pruning stimulates the formation of tiny feeder roots. Some nurseries cut back the tops of the trees before selling them.

If they don't then you should take a pair of clippers and cut the top back about 1-3. This won't harm the plant, but instead will make it break dormancy faster.

Next week: More about making nursery stock live. Watch for it!

COCKSCOMB: If you want a real showy item for the outdoor garden, try the Cockscomb (Celosia). There are two main types: the Plumosa or Plumed and the Cristata or "combed". Both are ideal for bedding and borders. Forest Fire has tall plumes (orange-scarlet) and the foliage is dark bronzy red.

Last year we used it against a gackground of white cleome. The red Toreador is a popular tall cockscomb with ball-shaped heads of bright lustrous red.

If you want a relief from the color, try the Golden Fleece feathered cockscomb, a soft yellow which changes to a twany yellow with age.

And did you know there are dwarf plumed types of fiery red and yellow, growing about a foot tall? These are ideal in a mass or as a border.

A word of caution: Cockscomb is a hot item for hot weather and you should not sow it outdoors until the soil has warmed. If planted too early it may be checked in growth, and will produce stunted, premature flower heads. You can start seed indoors in late April, and set them out in shirtsleeve weather.

TOMATOES: A big mistake many home gardeners make is to start their tomato plants too early indoors. In our own greenhouse we figure 6 weeks from the time of sowing seed to time for setting plants outdoors.

This not only includes sowing of seed, but transplanting the young seedlings. A young, lush, green - growing transplant will take off like a bird, when set outdoors, but one that's been checked (hardened) grows slower. A younger less hardened transplant has faster root regeneration, which means better survival.

Tests show that a good root development before flowering and fruit set leads to higher yields and a better fruit size.

We don't mean to say that you shouldn't harden (toughen) your plants before setting out. Good greenhouse operations still harden their plants by reducing water (stiffens the stems and by moving them to a cool spot, such as a coldframe.

Next week: more about tomatoes.

GIRDLED FRUIT TREES: Many a home gardener have just noticed how mice and rabbits have ruined young fruit trees by chewing on the bark. Will such trees survive? If the girdling has been completely around the tree, it's gone.

The tree will survive if up to ¾ of it has been girdled. You can save a girdled tree by resorting to bridge grafting. As the name implies, bridge-grafting consists of taking twigs ("scions") of same variety and tacking each end onto the live wood above and below the girdled area. Sap rises (bypasses the damaged area) and keeps the tree alive.

The secret is to get good contact and to do this you must whittle the ends of the scions so one side is wedge - shaped. Cover the entire graft with wax, made at rate of 1 pound of rosin, 3 oz. of linseed oil, and 5 lbs. of paraffin.

Apply with a brush. Some gardeners wrap the graft with a plastic bag to keep the moisture in, which is the purpose of the grafting wax.

PEPPERS: If you grow sweet peppers next to hot ones last year, and saved the seed, watch out! You're apt to have "sweet peppers" with a real hot taste. This happeded to us a couple years ago and for that reason we grow hot peppers as far away as possible, because we often prefer to save seed from our sweet peppers.

If you want a good sweet pepper, try the Vinedale or Penn Wonder we mentioned a couple weeks age. Both are ideal for the home garden. Get your seed started now, for big husky plants later.

POCKETBOOK PLANT: After your calceolari (Pocketbook plant) finishes blooming, better discard it. Some gardeners grow it on for a second year and have fair success.

If you want to try it for another year, cut plant back ½ and put it in a bright cellar window until late May. Then set it outdoors and grow it on during the summer months. Bring indoors before frost.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK — D. R. of Stroudsburg: "I have two prune trees which never produce fruit. One has had green prunes, but these drop off before they are ready. Is this because of poor pollination or what?"

Dropping of small green prune fruits before they ripen is due to an insect known as the plum curculio (Kerr-Q-Leo), a humpbacked pest which also ruins a lot of cherries and other fruits.

The adult stage of this insect is a snout beetle which cuts a semi - circular groove into the skin of the young prunes and lays its eggs in the center of this cut.

This stinging of the fruit causes it to stop growing and that's why the fruit drops to the ground. If you see a gummy exudation on the skin, you can be sure the insect stung the fruit.

Control: Plum curculio can be controlled with a series of three sprays, the first applied when the fruit shucks begin to open, and the other two at two 10-day intervals after the first.

Methoxychlor is used at the rate of one teaspoon to a quart of water to which has been added a few drops of household detergent. Spray the tree until fully covered.

R. D. of Scotrun: "I wanted to tell you that we had tiny white worms in the soil of our house plants, and it was no problem to get rid of them. I added a teaspoon of household bleach to a quart of water and watered the plants three times with the solution. It killed all the pests."

(Green Thumb note: One reader wrote to tell us he killed his philodendrons by adding the bleach full strength to the soil. The concentrated rate is poisonous, but when diluted, it's o.k.

Any good pesticide such as DDT or Chlordane, dusted lightly on the soil surface, will protect your plants up to three years and is preferable.)

R. B. of Cinnadensis: "Is it true that you can divide a tuberous begonia tuber and still get good flowering plants?"

Yes, you can propagate tuberous begonias by cutting the tubers into pieces. Just as soon as growth starts, take a sharp knife and cut the tuber, making sure that each piece has an "eye" or a growing sprout.

Dust the surfaces with Captan or sulfur, and pot them up in a loose mixture of one-third sand, one-third loam and one-third peat.

You can also start new plants from cuttings taken from young shoots. Root these in sand or sand - peat mixture and pot them up in the loose mixture mentioned above.

Housewives Ask Lower Milk Prices

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Westmoreland County housewife presented to Mrs. William W. Scranton this week petitions with some 30,000 signatures demanding lower retail milk prices.

Mrs. Scranton accepted the petitions from Mrs. Martha Kind, Delmont, on behalf of the governor.

The presentation ceremony gave two lawmakers an opportunity to say they would introduce legislation in the 1965 General Assembly to abolish the State Milk Control Commission, which regulates retail and wholesale milk prices.

The petitions said in part that the Milk Commission should "establish a fair retail price to consumers of milk."

The petitions also said the signers "request a reduction of present retail milk prices." They were directed to the State Milk Control Commission.

Asked if he would sponsor legislation to abolish milk control, Rep. Joseph P. Rigby, R-Allegheny, said "In 1965 that's exactly what I'm going to do."

Dominick E. Cioffi, D-Lawrence, said he would put in a bill to abolish the commission "at the first opportunity."

The current regular session is limited by law to budget and finance matters. Other legislation now being considered is by special order of the governor.

Shortway Ceremony Set April 16

STROUDSBURG — Keystone Shortway Assn. will hold ground - breaking ceremonies Thursday, April 16 at a point near Hazleton, C. E. Noyes, executive director, said yesterday.

He added that a second ground - breaking ceremony is being planned and will be held in Venango County in the future.

In other business at a recent meeting the association announced dates for the Pennsylvania Highway Information Association district meetings. They are: Indiana, April 15; Clearfield, April 29; Montoursville, May 12, and Franklin, June 17.

The board also approved plans to proceed with printing of folders advertising the Shortway route to the New York World's Fair. It is hoped that these folders can be printed with matching dollars from tourist promotion agencies along the Shortway.

Representing the Eastern District in the association are Clifford L. Cramer, East Stroudsburg and Horace G. Heller, Stroudsburg.

Takes Husband's Post In Congress

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Voters in Tennessee's traditionally Republican 2nd District sent Mrs. Irene Bailey Baker, GOP nominee, to Congress Tuesday to serve the unexpired term of her late husband, Rep. Howard H. Baker.

Mrs. Baker defeated Willard Yarbrough, Knoxville newspaperman, who had made a spirited bid to become the first Democrat since 1855 to represent the east Tennessee district.

Planner Speaks At Bangor Meet

BANGOR —Bangor Exchange Club met last night at the White Horse Tavern near Wind Gap.

The guest speaker was Claude W. Peters, executive secretary of the Lehigh and Northampton Joint Planning Commission.

The session was attended by mayors, councilmen, township supervisors and interested citizens in the area.

After the meeting the board of control conferred and suggested that the March 25 dinner meeting be postponed and the membership attend the Penn State Glee Club program at Bangor Area High School.

Samuel Hicks, chairman of the concert, said that after the program a reception will be held in the cafeteria of the high school.

Nominated

STROUDSBURG — President Johnson sent four area Pennsylvania postmaster nominations to the Senate yesterday.

They are Harry D. Hess, of Bangor; Marian A. MacDonough, of Marshalls Creek; Ernest W. Parsons, of Pen Argyl, and Glenn C. Boote, of Swiftwater.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Housework and community service might take Sisyphus as their patron saint. He was the legendary king who in the after world was condemned to roll a stone to the top of the hill only to have it roll right back down again.

Housework is much the same—you no sooner get finished doing the breakfast dishes than it's time to start dirtying up the pots and pans getting ready for dinner; no sooner finish the ironing than it's time to do this week's washing.

In the realm of community work, I note today that the Coolbaugh Twp. Fire Co. no sooner paid off the last $2,000 on the mortgage than they start drawing up plans for a new firehouse, which undoubtedly will mean another mighty big stone to roll up to the top of the hill.

Seems as if there ought to be a decent interval when you could just stand around and admire a perfectly ordered house, a fully-paid-for firehouse, at least long enough to get your breath from the last big push.

But maybe we'd better not push that idea too far. If a house, once Spring house-cleaned, stayed that way and a family, once-fed, didn't get hungry again, there'd be small need for a homemaker. And if a firehouse was perfectly adequate to serve for 50 years, then the community wouldn't be growing, and there'd be no need of a fire company auxiliary.

So put your shoulder to the wheel, girls, and dig in your heels and get the job done. My share in this heroic effort is to be an admiring audience and historian. If all the community jobs were done, all the necessary funds raised, there'd be mighty little social news to report.

Miss Elizabeth Jean Howe

Durkee-Howe Wedding On March 21

Moscow —Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Howe of 714 Beech St., Moscow, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Jean, to John Best Durkee Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Durkee of 2149 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Miss Howe is a graduate of North Pocono High School and received her bachelor of arts degree from Pennsylvania State University where she was president of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority. Miss Howe was also elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa, national honor societies. She is currently studying for her doctor of philosophy degree at Lehigh University, specializing in English.

Mr. Durkee, who attended Stroud Union High School, is a graduate of Lehigh University and a chemical engineer. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Our Keystone Room at Wyckoff's has many faces —all of them beautiful. It has been since its beginning in January, a very gracious and dignified art gallery; a theatre for motion pictures; a delightful auditorium for corset, millinery, and teen-age fashion shows. Now it has undergone a complete transformation. It is no longer an auditorium. For the moment . . . from this time until Easter . . . it is a boutique, filled to overflowing with hats. There are hats of all kinds to delight all women . . . big hats, little hats, flowered hats, tailored hats, padre and cavalier styles, sailors and derbies, picture hats and pillboxes, silhouettes and profiles . . . and in every conceivable color of the rainbow.

There are mirrors everywhere . . . and there are tables and chests filled with hats. We have so many hats, in fact, some of the very loveliest are still hidden in drawers. At last count there were still ten cases of unpacked hats being stacked at the head of the stairway in the stock room. There are even wall fixtures from which hats hang at inviting angles . . . black and white hats, red hats, blue hats, and some of those wonderful hats that combine patent leather crowns or brims with various types of fabric.

That isn't all: there's a big tea table set up at one end of the room, and at either side are tables for four where each morning, from 10 to 11:30, Blanche Mackey, Elsie Cyriax, Betty Winkelmann, myself, or one of a dozen others as the case may be, will serve coffee. In the afternoon, tea and cookies will be served from 2:30 until 4:30, and on the Monday and Friday evenings we are open, punch and cookies will be offered.

In order that everyone will be sure to see our glorious Now-into-Easter boutique, we have placed coupons in every department of Wyckoff's, and our employees are asked to refer customers to the second floor. When the coupons are tallied at the end of the 89th anniversary celebration here at Wyckoff's, the three employees who have referred the greatest number of customers to our Millinery department will receive prizes: the first, the choice of any Easter bonnet from our breathtakingly beautiful display. The next two prizes, 5.00 gift certificates. Three customers will also receive prizes at the end of our Anniversary Sale . . . the first, a 25.00 gift certificate; the second, 15.00 gift certificate, and the third, a 10.00 gift certificate.

You know, so many things are happening all at once in this maddeningly fast-moving store. I'm not sure where I am or what time it is. I'm not even sure about the day it is, events are moving so fast. But I wouldn't change it if I could . . . it's like being shot from a cannon and landing somewhere on cloud seven, and finding it the next step to heaven!

How about joining us this morning for coffee?

* * *

Here's something really cute and different ,and just 3.00: a flower vase pin by Marvella that is actually three pieces of jewelry in one. The vase itself is brushed gold and has a bouquet of roses also in gold. One can remove the bouquet easily at will, and replace it with a bouquet of valley lilies or bleeding heart. This is really bringing expensive "change about" jewel creations down to the reach of us all . . . and it's delightful.

Cy Barrett Says

Super Salesman

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

A super salesman rang our doorbell last night and told us how we can obtain an expensive water conditioner for nothing. We might even make a profit. All that is required is for us to give a copy of our Christmas card list to him and sign an agreement stating that our names can be used as an introduction to our friends.

The salesman will handle all the details and phone them for interviews. Commissions from sales made through this method will be given to us. Payments on the water conditioner we must buy to get in on this deal are reasonable. Should we go for the deal?

MARTHA AND ALEX

DEAR MARTHA AND ALEX:

You are involved in a highly unsophisticated diversion known as "referral selling." Two or three commissions from referred friends is the best (or worst) I have heard of. Sign on the dotted line and you can lose your friends, money, Christmas card list . . . and wait 99 years for profits.

The weasel told you to let him write your friends directly, signing your names so he can claim what he wants and pin any mail fraud charges on you. If you agree, permission will be included in the conditional sales contract for your water conditioner. Throw this guy out on the lawn when he calls back. Then buy a water conditioner from a legitimate dealer. You'll save 50 per cent (or more) and can climb into the tub without being ashamed of yourselves.

CY

DEAR CY:

I am 45 years old and have a daughter in high school who wants to become a physical education teacher. This means college and money, so I am trying to become an insurance agent besides holding down my regular factory job.

Since October, I have sold only one $1,000 life policy. The minute I tell people I am an insurance man, they freeze and don't want to talk to me. Still, I know, when they have bad luck, they want to see an insurance representative to get their benefits. Our company recommends cold canvassing, personal or by telephone. I prefer the telephone. How do you suggest I make appointments?

HENRY MATSON

DEAR HENRY:

Prospects think in broad, unreasonable categories which are positive or negative. Anything costing money is negative. You, the salesman, must reverse the current by putting a positive charge in your telephone words to secure appointments. This can be done by transmitting power of enthusiasm and confidence. It can also be accomplished through a concise, quick sell of inherent benefits.

Whirlwind insurance salesman Elmer G. Leterman says, "The sale begins when the customer says 'no,'" but you don't want no's when making appointments over the phone. At those critical moments, your aim should be to set a time and place for a meeting. Not whether, but when. Anything you reveal should be the bare, honest essentials. Just enough to generate interests.

As with any selling, you have to make far more calls than you judge to get results. Frank G. Bettger, in his book "How I Raised Myself From Failure to Success In Selling" (Prentice-Hall), says, "Some of the best contacts I ever made were men who were extremely difficult to see." P.S. An insurance salesman does a whale of a lot more for others than practically anyone he sells. Be tolerant of prospects' lack of understanding and proud of your work. As proud as that teenage daughter is of you.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Thursday, March 12, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Start your schedule on time, keep as close to planned routine as possible, without strain, and do not let "extras" interfere in an unwarranted way. Suppress agitation.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Make a list of "must do" items before you embark on day's splendid activity program. You may have essentials mixed with the unimportant: There will not be room for both.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Handling your own and others' affairs may present new or increased problems. Study situations well before acting or voicing opinion.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Getting behind in chores, in keeping promises? Perhaps you have over-committed yourself. There are always ways to retreat, and people will understand if you talk things over, promptly, frankly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Ideas may not come easily today, and obeying others may annoy at times, but where duty calls, strengthen your will to carry through in the stalwart fashion the Leotie can when he wishes.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Some projects must be backed more carefully, some methods changed. But nothing should be done on the spur of the moment or with antagonism, as feelings may run high now.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Generous influences. Venus favors both the artistic and practical, everyday items. You may face some opposition at first, but you can handle this astutely — with tact.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — It is better to have tried and lost than not to have made the effort. A sturdy try does accomplish something. Strive to bring about surer cooperation — it can be done.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — You can achieve great satisfaction by completing a well-done job, starting someone else off with an assist toward cherished goals. Emphasize stability, consistency.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Take things easy now if you have been using up excessive energy lately. You can accomplish a great deal by maintaining a moderate pace.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Fine Uranus influences favor a new approach to difficult problems, consolidation of gains made in the past. Start looking now — for improved returns.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Diversity is this day's key word, but NOT confusion. Neither plan nor act without sound and long-range purpose. This is no time for imprudence.

YOU BORN TODAY give out with sympathy and capable endeavor and still have extra talent for that "quiet" or rush hour. You do not blow hot and cold, nor are you given to temperamental outbursts. But you can confound others by taking things too seriously, "to heart", and turning on a silent mood. Discuss practically what bothers you. You lean to the intellectual; the Piscean is often a scholar. The wonders of our world intrigue you. You like to enhance, decorate, investigate, research, improve; are suited to a position of trust, travel, unusual tasks; are able to make future plans accurately; judge with acumen because you accumulate knowledge readily and look to the future.

Pay-TV Puzzle

LOS ANGELES—For the latest word on the kind of television you pay for, we exposed ourselves yesterday to a conference with Tom Gallery, vice president in charge of sports for Subscription Television, Inc., which plans to be functioning in little more than three months.

At that time, all home games of the Dodgers will be carried to roughly 10,000 subscribers of pay-TV in a Los Angeles area, while home games of the Giants will be transmitted to 10,000 more in San Francisco.

By the end of the year, the blueprint calls for a total of 97,000 installations in the two cities. The five-year plan is grandiose—two-thirds of all the television sets in both areas.

According to Gallery, no hitches have developed in which the operation of pay television here could be sidetracked. All that's happened is that STV has filed a suit for $117 million against theatre exhibitors, charging them with violation of anti-trust laws by conspiring to prevent competition from pay-TV.

Understandably, theaters are having trouble developing a fondness for the new medium. A guy walks into a movie house in Beverly Hills and he is handed a sheet which warns that pay-TV could mean the death of free-TV. He also is asked to sign a petition to help knock the new varmint out of the box.

"People paid as much as $10 apiece to see the Liston-Clay fight in theaters," says Gallery. "We will be showing the same thing for $3 or $4 per home. You can see why theaters don't like us."

As a rule of thumb, the price of pay-TV sports attractions will approximate the cost of a general admission seat at the scene of the event.

In other words, the starting tab for Dodger and Giant games will be $1.50, with the subscriber deciding how many people he wishes to entertain for that figure.

Right now, in the areas to be wired for pay television, STV has dispatched salesmen to unload the service on prospective clients.

Posing as a potential subscriber, with a credit rating no worse than the next guy's, we asked Gallery to explain what happens.

"It's ridiculously simple," he answered. "You begin by paying a $10 installation fee, plus a weekly maintenance fee of $10, which will include a bonus attraction. However, the first 65,000 subscribers will be charged only $5 for installation and no weekly fee for the rest of the year.

"The only thing remaining is to pay for the entertainment you choose to see. When you turn on the channel, an electronic device will charge the program to your account in much the manner of making a telephone call."

"Suppose," we inquired, "that the kids run up a tab of $6 before we even wake up. Will STV be understanding?"

"No more than the phone company," said Gallery. "Each STV box, however, will come equipped with a lock and key. This will be handy for keeping kids and sitters at bay."

The current plan of STV calls for the regular announcers of the Dodgers and Giants to handle the pay-TV games this year. In Los Angeles, Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett will juggle the radio and TV between them, as they do on games carried by free television, and Russ Hodges and Lon Simmons will do the same in San Francisco.

"We will have pre-game shows, post-game shows and films to go with our telecasts," says Gallery. "Remember, we don't have any time problem. Nor do we have commercials. And if a game goes extra innings, it will be a pleasure to sit there without station interruptions and a guy saying, 'The Joe Blow Show will not be seen today.'"

I inquired, "Suppose a guy comes home when the Dodger games is in the fifth inning. Can he see the rest, say, for 75 cents?"

"If you get to the park in the fifth inning," answered Gallery, "will O'Malley let you in for 75 cents? Since the games will still be on radio, a fan can decide whether it's worth watching the finish on TV."

The prospective effect of pay television on gate receipts hasn't escaped the rest of the clubs in the National League who will receive 25 per cent of the Dodgers' and Giants' loot when they appear in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

And the take for all parties figures to increase if the kids ever find out where you hide the key.

7 New Teams Enter NCAA Tourney

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Seven new teams come into the National Collegiate Athletic Association Basketball Tournament Friday. They'll join the nine first-round winners in a two-night showdown at four locations which will trim the field to four for the semifinals and finals at Kansas City a week later.

The newcomers, each the champion or co-champion of a major conference, include the first five in the final Associated Press national rankings. Two others of the Top Ten came through the first round successfully and one was eliminated.

The leader, UCLA, is the first team to come into the NCAA tournament undefeated since since 1961. The Bruins won 26 straight during the regular season.

Draw Byes

In addition to UCLA, the teams that drew byes through the first round were Michigan, No. 2; Duke, No. 3; Kentucky No. 4; Wichita, No. 5; Kansas State and San Francisco.

Defending champion Loyola of Chicago, No. 8, and Villanova, No. 7, were among the first-round winners. Other winners were Princeton, Connecticut, Ohio University, Texas Western, Creighton, Utah State and Seattle, winner over the No. 6 team, Oregon State.

Here's how they'll pair off for Friday's games:

At Raleigh, N. C.—Duke vs. Villanova and Princeton vs. Connecticut.

At Minneapolis—Michigan vs. Loyola and Kentucky vs. Ohio U.

At Wichita, Kan.—Wichita vs. Creighton and Kansas State vs. Texas Western.

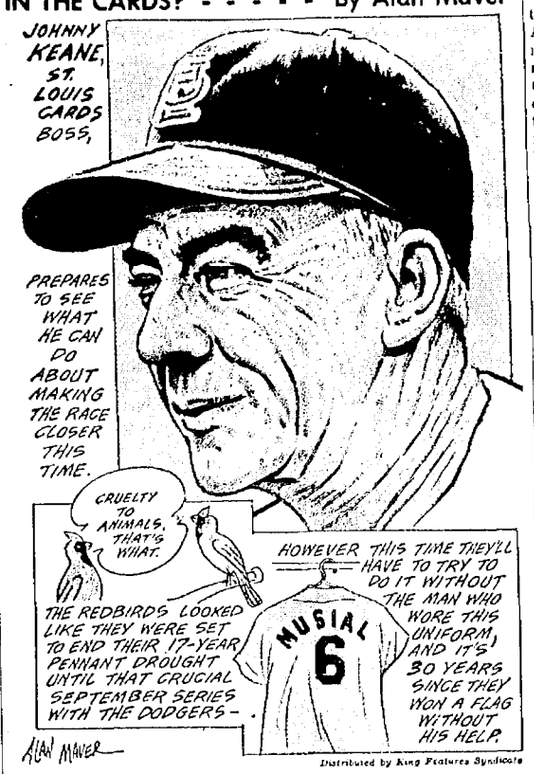

At Corvallis, Ore.—San Francisco vs. Utah State and UCLA vs. Seattle.

Play Saturday

The winners Friday night will play Saturday for the right to go on to the national semifinals and finals March 20-21. The losers will play off for third place in their regions.

The 16 teams include four of five 1964 All-America players—Bill Bradley of Princeton, Cotton Nash of Kentucky, Walt Hazard of UCLA and Dave Stallworth of Wichita. Duke's Jeff Mullins and Cazzie Russell, Michigan's sensational sophomore, were second team All-America choices.

Bring Sun, Too

Miami Arrives For NIT Opener

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) -Appropriately enough, the sun was shining Wednesday when Miami's 2.4 point-a-minute basketball team arrived by air for their opening round National Invitation Tournament game in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Now, it will be up to St. Joseph's of Philadelphia to bring the Floridians down from the clouds.

Miami is the highest-scoring team in college basketball history, averaging 96.1 points for 26 games. This scoring power swept the Hurricanes to a 20-6 record and their fourth post-season tourney in the past five years.

"A Long Way"

"We'll go a long way in the NIT if we play the way we did against LaSalle," said Bruce Hale, the coach, while his team practiced at a local high school gymnasium. "But St. Joseph's will be tough. They make few mistakes."

The Hurricanes walloped LaSalle 121-99, one of nine times they scored 100 or more points.

Miami is led by Rick Barry of Roselle, N.J., a 6-foot-7 junior whose 32.1-point average places him fifth among the major-college players.

"Barry has no weakness," Hale insisted. "Best of all are his ability to jump with anybody and his quick reflexes. He's a big man with a little man's agility."

Three Big Men

St. Joseph's, 17-9, held opponents to a 69.3-point average during the regular season. The Hawks have three big men up front, Larry Hoffman, 6-8; Tom Duff, 6-5, and Jim Boyle, 6-4.

The Miami-St. Joe game is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. EST followed by New York University's meeting with Syracuse. The Violets have a disappointing 15-8 mark while the Orange is 17-7.

The opening round will be completed Saturday afternoon when Army, 16-6, meets St. Bonaventure, 16-7, and Pittsburgh, 17-7, takes on Drake, 20-6.

Quarter-Finals

Quarter-finals begin Saturday night when top-seeded DePaul, 20-3, faces the NYU-Syracuse winner and Bradley, 20-6, opposes the Miami-St. Joseph's winner.

The quarter-finals conclude next Tuesday night when Duquesne, 15-6, plays the Army-St. Bonaventure survivor and New Mexico, 21-5, meets the Pittsburgh-Drake winner.

Cassius Voted Month's Best

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay has been named boxer of the month by the World Boxing Association for his stunning upset of Sonny Liston.

Clay, a prohibitive underdog, won the title at Miami Beach Feb. 25 when Liston failed to come out for the seventh round because of an arm injury.

Under WBA rules, which provide that a defeated champion must be dropped to at least third place among the contenders, Liston was named No. 3 behind Doug Jones of New York and Erni Terrell of Chicago.

S-burg Poconos Hold Car Washes

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Poconos of the Pocono Mountain Baseball League will hold separate car washes Saturday at Serfass Gulf station in East Stroudsburg and at Yeisley Chevron station in Stroudsburg from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Funds will be used toward purchasing equipment for the new team.

Liston 'Unruly', Policeman Says

DENVER (AP)—A policeman said Wednesday that Sonny Liston "became very unruly" after he was arrested and that's why he called for help and took the former heavyweight fight champion to police headquarters in handcuffs.

Liston, who lost his title to Cassius Clay last month, wasn't talking about dropping a decision to the police. A man answering the telephone at Liston's home said the fighter wasn't there.

Patrolman James Snider said Liston's new Cadillac was hitting speeds of between 76 and 80 miles per hour on 17th Avenue Parkway Tuesday night before he flagged him down.

A woman was in the car with Liston but she was not arrested.

Calls It "Baloney"

Liston, in a television interview, denied that he started any rough stuff. He called the story "a lot of baloney."

Liston also denied that anyone was in the car with him when he was stopped.

Snider said he didn't know his prisoner was the former champion until they reached the police station.

"I knew I was going to put the party under arrest when I stopped him," the office said, "so I didn't ask him for any identification.

"I told him to get out of the car and then I found he had a 22-caliber pistol in his coat pocket. It had six shells in it."

Liston was charged with speeding, careless and reckless driving, driving without an operator's license and carrying a concealed weapon.

Released On Bond

He was released on $300 bond, which he paid from a large roll of bills.

Snider, who stands 5-foot-10 and weighs 185 pounds, said Liston was cooperative when he asked him to get into the police car.

"Then on the way downtown he became very unruly," Snider said. "He cursed and brought up things like race prejudice. He pounded his fists on a sort of desk we have in these radar cars."

Meanwhile, more problems cropped up for Liston.

Liston's former manager, George Katz of Philadelphia, filed a $1.3-million suit in New York, charging breach of contract.

Stories Spring From Campsites

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Stories you hear in the spring, tra-la:

"We were playing this exhibition game against Cleveland in Denver," said Larry Jansen, once a Giant pitcher and now the San Francisco pitching coach. "There'd been some snow so they had to clear the field. There was a pile of snow from two to maybe four feet deep around the outfield.

"Anyway, our right fielder—I think it was George Wilson — went back for this fly ball and backed into the snow bank. He went right over backwards just as the ball was coming down to him.

"Well, George came up and made his throw back toward the infield. And when the umpire saw him start the throw he called the batter out and then turned away from the play.

"What the umpire didn't know—for a minute, anyway—was that the ball George threw back was a snowball. The baseball was still out there in that snow bank."

"We were playing at Ebbets Field one day when this heckler got on me," said Cookie Lavagetto, the Giant coach who played for the Brooklyn Dodgers in the late 30s and 40s.

"The catcher and I were chasing a pop foul over by the seats. I brushed him just as I got the ball and it slipped away from me.

"'Lavagetto, you bum,' this guy yells from the stands. 'Why didn't you let the catcher have it?'

"I ask the guy why he doesn't drop dead.

"So after the game I'm leaving the park when a fellow comes up and says a man wants to talk to me. He takes me to a car and there's this big guy sitting inside.

"'You want we should take care of that heckler?' the big guy asks me. I say 'no but thanks a lot.' I want to get out of there. This guy is in the Mafia."

"Ever see the heckler again?" Cookie was asked.

"Never did," he said.

Sign To Fight

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz of New York and challenger Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., signed contracts Wednesday for their 15-round title fight at Hiram Bithorn Stadium April 11. The fight originally was scheduled for April 4.

Wealthy Oilman Seeks AFL Club

CHICAGO (AP) — Nash J. Dowdle, 40, oilman from Midland, Tex., announced Wednesday he had deposited $25,000 earnest money with the American Football League and hoped to operate a Chicago franchise in the league beginning with the 1965 season.

Dowdle, a native Chicagoan and one of the original incorporators of the AFL's New York Titans—now the Jets, said he has been approached by several Chicago business, professional and industrial leaders to join him in buying a Chicago franchise.

Dowdle left the Titan organization in 1961 to concentrate on his oil business.

Dowdle was chairman of a committee that promoted AFL pre-season games the past two years in Midland.

He said that several AFL club owners "by telephone, letter and in personal conversations" assured him of their support in any awarding of a Chicago franchise.

Last week, another Chicago group headed by Bob Nussbaum announced it was seeking a Chicago franchise in the AFL.

The AFL is scheduled to meet either in late May or June to discuss expansion.

The eight-club AFL recently pocketed a $36-million, five-year television contract with the National Broadcasting Co. The contract provides for $800,000 annual television rights for any new league member.

Still Pitches At 58

Satchel Paige Stays In Excellent Shape

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Satchel Paige, who's at least 58 but says he still pitches baseball every day during the season, came here with his barn-storming basketball team—the New York Rens.

"I just manage from the bench," says Satchel. "I know all about this basketball."

Paige, often called the greatest pitcher in history but who didn't get into the big leagues until he was well past his prime—he was over 40 years old—has a semi-pro baseball club at Moosejaw, Canada. The season is May, June and July and the club plays 150 games. There are many double-headers.

"Pretty Good Record

Satchel pitches two or three innings a day seven days a week. "We got careless and lost a couple of games last season," says Paige. "But that's a pretty good record — 148 wins and two losses."

His basketball coaching lasts three months. "The rest of the year I spend getting my ball club ready and training," he explains. "I haveta work all a time, with those six children in Kansas City."

Satchel never reveals his age but says "It's between 50 and 60. I couldn't be as old as a lot of folks say since I can't get a pension."

The record books say he was born in 1906. He was reported to be 42 when he went to the Cleveland Indians of the American League in 1948 — the year after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier.

"I got $25,000 a year for two years," he says. "When they got through taking out I didn't have much left."

Cleveland let him go when it had a reorganization, he insisted. "They said I was too old even though I had a better than .500 per cent record." He won 10, lost 8. Then he pitched for the St. Louis Browns. In three years his record was 18 and 23.

Paige weighs 178 pounds for baseball. "I sure have put on that weight," he chuckles. "I weighed 177 about 20 years ago."

Looks The Same

He looks about the way he did when he pitched for the Kansas City Monarchs in the summer and for teams in Cuba, Puerto Rico and South America in the winter.

"Don't anybody have to tell me how to get in shape," he says, as he watched his basketball team warm up. "I know what's got to be done. All that running in the outfield, that's no good. The way to get in shape is to start off by fielding 25 balls the first day, then 50 the next, then 100 a day, stretching and bending and throwing them back and you got to start all over if you miss one.

"A lot of the players today, they ain't in shape. Take a pitcher. He pitches one day, then he might be off four. When he warms up he stands there and throws the ball. He doesn't have to bend for it. How does that get you in shape?

Have To Work

"You stay in shape by working. Pitching every day keeps you in shape. It doesn't make your arm tired. It makes your arm stronger. Just like walking every day makes your legs stronger.

"I've never had my arm rubbed, not even in the big leagues. I would's let 'em rub my arm. Rubbing is the worst thing you can do to an arm. Be 20 guys on the table to get rubbed, but not me. I figure you work the soreness out the same way you worked it in. Like running. You run the soreness out of your legs just like you ran it in.

"Players these days are out a week with a cold. They sprain an ankle, they're out two weeks. Way we did it, if we sprained an ankle, was soak it in Epsom salts or kerosene and wrap it up and play. We got a cold, we didn't even bother to tell anybody."

When will he quit baseball?

"If they ever start to blast hit me, I'll quit pitching," he replied. "I don't think they're ever gonna start."

Satchel Paige

Bouton Signs For $18,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Jim Bouton, the New York Yankees' first major holdout in a quarter of a century, capitulated Wednesday to threats of a $100-a-day penalty.

Shortly after arriving at the team's training quarters, the 25-year-old right-handed pitcher signed a contract for $18,000, the final offer of General Manager Ralph Houk.

Bouton, who won 21 games and lost seven in a season that saw him record the team's best earned-run average, 2.53, had demanded $20,000 a 100 per cent increase over his 1963 salary.

Wallenpaupack Wins JV Title

WALLENPAUPACK — Nick D'Andrea netted 18 points to lead Wallenpaupack to the Wayne County junior varsity basketball championship with a 54-42 victory over Delaware Valley last night.

Also hitting double figures for the winners were Marty Cerato and Ray Valakonis with 14 apiece.

George Riedenger led Delaware Valley with 18 points.

Delaware Valley led at halftime, 31-26, but Wallenpaupack outdistanced the visitors in each of the last two sessions to claim the title.

Donald's FAMILY SHOES
629 Main Street, Stroudsburg
REGAL.

Handsewn and Handsome
The classic Regal moccasin is hand-stitched at the front for a lean, clean look and a snug, comfortable fit. That's why we can say with confidence that fit and fashionability have finally come together in one great brand of shoes: Regal.

FOR 5 YEARS
this economy car will stay an economy car!

We're not talking about the money you'll save using regular gas or having infrequent oil changes.

That's important, sure. But it's not what separates one economy car from another.

We're talking about replacement parts and labor for things like the engine block, internal engine parts, water pump, intake manifold, Trans-Axle case, rear wheel bearings.

Major repair bills.

Just one major repair bill is enough to turn any economy car into an expensive proposition. And your best protection against major repair bills caused by defects in material and workmanship is your warranty.

The Chrysler Corporation warranty* on vital engine and drive train parts covers replacement parts and labor for 5 full years

OR 50,000 MILES

Compare this with warranties of other cars: 6 months or 6,000 miles, 12 months or 12,000 miles, 24 months or 24,000 miles.

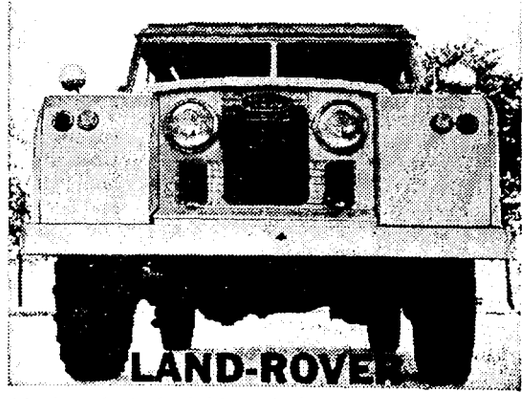

None better than Simca 1000. No other import can match it! That's the big reason Simca 1000 is the economy car that will stay an economy car. The big reason why Simca 1,000 is the economy car you will stay with.

Best protected, best performing all-new economy car. Make it yours . . .

* HERE'S HOW THE SIMCA 1000 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Motors Corporation warrants all of the following vital parts of the Simca 1000 for 5 years or 50,000 miles whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at an Authorized Simca Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, water pump, intake manifold, Trans-Axle parts and rear wheel bearings.

The best 4-wheel drive vehicle in the world.

It's the only 4-wheel drive vehicle to give you 8 forward speeds, a choice of gas or diesel engines, and so many kinds of optional farming, ranching, and construction equipment that you can specify a rig custom-built to your requirements — It gives you up to twice the payload (model for model) of other 4-wheel drive vehicles — It gives you a wider choice of body styles than other 4-wheel drive vehicles: open, closed, and canvas-topped models; 7 and 10 passenger station wagons; pickup trucks; even a live-in Land-Rover Dormobile — It gives you 3 power take-off points, a choice of two chassis lengths, and performance so dependable it's made Land-Rovers standard equipment for the armies of 26 countries and the police forces of 37.
